LAST EDITION. STORMS IN THE WEST.

The Great Floods at Portland
Not Subsiding; Much Damage.

Trees, Houses and Shops Float
Down River; Fears for Bridges.

Telegraph Wires All Down;
Northern Pacific All Right.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 6.—The flood in this city came with unexpected rapidity. Up to night yesterday the inundation on Front street was from midway between Morrison and Alder, down to B street. On Second street the water reached from Washington down to A street. However, at no place except in isolated spots was its depth beyond three feet. All stores in First street in the flooded district had their perishable goods raised a few inches above the floor. The temperature is exceedingly mild, and from Morrison to A street no single first floor in Front street is free from the flood. The street is full of water from Yam hill to the general offices of the Southern Pacific. Morrison street bridges and the steel bridge continue to be at the alarming points of interest. At noon a rope was stretched across the bridge from the street preventing anyone walking upon the bridge approaches. Early this morning another building from the Morrison street factory was swept down the current and lodged against the west end of the bridge. Soon after a lot of frame work came along and lodged on top of it. The pressure was tremendous. The factory building with all its frame crowded under the timbers and threatened to lift the structure off its piers. At 125 this afternoon the man in charge of the steel bridge suddenly cried out for all hands to get off it. His warning was preceded by two short clicking sounds. The throngs, numbering hundreds, immediately dispersed. The east end of the draw had lost its bearings and the rollers had slipped out of place. The water has risen to such a height that the center caissons cannot be seen, and a small boat will carry the water upon the ornamental work. Drifted to land large quantities have collected about the pier, and the machinery of the draw is completely blocked. Huge trees, with their limbs and roots protruding high in the air, pass under the bridge and are broken like so many pipe-stems. About 7 o'clock this morning a warehouse came floating down the river and passed under both bridges. The roof had been taken off and piles of freight lay exposed. The warehouse was about 300 feet long and is supposed to have come from Oregon City.

AN EARLIER REPORT.

The River at a Standstill This Morning; Highest Since 1876.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 6.—This morning the Columbia river at this point is at a standstill and it is hoped that no further rise will occur. At Carvill and Oregon City, the river is falling at the rate of one inch per hour. Water in the city of Portland is the highest known since 1876, but so far it has been contained to a comparatively small district, and although causing much inconvenience has occasioned no serious damage.

The water last night was 28 feet above high water mark, and extended four squares back from the river. The rising of the flood has been caused by a simultaneous rising of the Willamette and Columbia rivers, which are already at a high stage several months apart. The main flood has been in the Willamette, but an unusual stage of water in the Columbia prevented the former river running off as it usually does. More serious damage has been occasioned throughout Willamette valley than here. Bridges were carried away at Salem and Oregon City, and many small houses built near the river were washed away. Communication with these points is very uncertain and the full extent of damage is a matter of conjecture.

A large part of the territory flooded in Portland is low ground not occupied by buildings, but in the business streets submerged, where the lower stories of a number of blocks are flooded, subsidence of water may reveal unsuspected damage to substructures, as a strong current is running.

PORTLAND, Ore., via Vancouver, B. C., and Montreal, Feb. 6.—The water is now believed to be at a standstill, and no further damage to merchandise in Portland is anticipated. Railway bridges are still in danger, however, as the water in some of the streets is waist deep and there is a terrible current. Telegraphic communication with the East is completely cut off, except by way of Vancouver upon the Canadian Pacific telegraph system.

The Telegraph Service.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Advices from the far Northwest indicate little improvement in the telegraphic situation there. After the wires had been broken down by snow slides on the regular route to Portland, the Western Union company managed to get a wire through to Tacoma over the Cascade division of the Northern Pacific railway and thence down to Portland. This held up only a short time, and reports this morning are to the effect that a heavy wind storm on the Cascade division blew down many large pine trees, breaking the wires and disorganizing the service. The flood in the Willamette river at Portland also carried away a cable of the company which was laid across it, making the break in the connections still more serious.

The Northern Pacific All Right.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—General Manager W. S. Mellen of the Northern Pacific railway telegraphed the Associated Press as follows from Tacoma, Wash.: "The report that the Northern Pacific is in trouble is absolutely untrue. We were temporarily blocked Sunday and Monday by a snow slide in the Cascade mountains, but all delayed trains were

KANSAS FARMERS IN EARNST.

They Ask the Governor to Call an Extra Session of the Legislature.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 6.—Petitions are being circulated through Shawnee county asking Governor Humphrey to call a special session of the legislature for the passage of a stay law. The petition emanates from the Farmer's Alliance, and is being circulated in nearly every county in the state. It is receiving the signatures of a very large number of farmers, and it begins to look as though the alliance would make quite a formidable showing in demanding an extra session.

Already a large number of these petitions have been received at the executive office, and gentlemen who are figuring the movement say that before the 15th of the present month, the governor will be deluged with petitions and will be convinced that the farmers are in earnest when they ask that the lawmakers be convened. It is asked in the petition that a special session be called for the purpose of providing for the relief of our farmers by the passage of a law giving the mortgagee a loan and to extend at least two years in which to occupy, enjoy, and redeem if possible, the real estate of the mortgagor, and to provide also for a stay of execution on all judgments on promissory notes and mortgages made for a reasonable time after judgment without bond.

FAVOR BUTLER'S BILL.

Alabama Negroes Who Want to Go "Back Where They Came."

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 6.—For several days the negroes of Bessemer, Ala., have been giving meetings and discussing Senator Butler's bill. The meetings have been largely attended by the best and most intelligent element of the colored people of the town. Today they gave the press the following address, which will be forwarded to the senate and house of representatives at Washington: "We, the negroes here, have been holding meetings favoring a separation of the races and immigration of the colored people to the Congo Free state in Africa, and we hope that Senator Butler's bill will give the colored people a chance to go back to our own country where we belong. We know that it will be better for the colored people and for the white people. We are sorry, but we cannot help it. Time has brought this on us. Let knowledge now have its way, and knowledge will pass the bill."

WEEDING OUT CRIME.

Farmers in Ohio Form a Vigilance Committee to Drive Out Criminals.

CHILICOTHE, Ohio, Feb. 6.—For several months past township, this county, has suffered from an epidemic of crime. It seemed impossible to apprehend the offenders, and the people have grown desperate. As a last resort it was decided to hold a vigilance committee. It was decided to go to work at once, and a dozen stalwart farmers were sworn in as special constables. Yesterday morning they started on a patrol, and from house to house they inquired if there were any offenders. They were met with a friendly reception, and the special constables were busy bringing in offenders. Hundreds were sent to the jail, and the day was twenty-six.

MAY COST DEARLY.

Heavy Losses to the Texas Capital Builders by a Wrong Line.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 6.—Considerable apprehension has been excited by the reported question as to the jurisdiction of Texas over a large portion of the Panhandle section, including about 1,000,000 acres of land. The Capital syndicate is said a mistake was made in locating the lands in that section under state title, and the boundary line between Texas and New Mexico, whereby it was placed four miles too far west. The Capital syndicate is said to involve many heavy losses to the Capital syndicate, unless the state proposes to make it good. The Capital syndicate is the one which constructed the new state capital and is composed largely of Chicago capitalists, among the most prominent being Senator Farwell.

FULL OF ICEBERGS.

The Northern Passage Across the Atlantic.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6.—Reports of dangerous icebergs lying directly in the path of western-bound steamships still come in. The United States customs officers have warned mariners of the dangers attending the "northern passage." Captain McMillan of the steamship Minotaur, which arrived from Hamburg yesterday, reports having passed within a few miles of a floating island of clear, blue ice 700 feet high and a mile long. Capt. Evans says that by close observation he located it in lat. 44.34, long. 48.40. The Minotaur had a most thrilling experience during the passage, which was accompanied by heavy gales and high seas.

The others were lost at sea.

A. J. Hoyd expects to leave the latter part of the week for a short business trip to Milwaukee.

A case of diphtheria is reported in the south end of town.

Notwithstanding the difficulties and vexatious delays which naturally occur in starting up new works of this kind, the Minnesota Car works have already turned out sixty-five cars. The rollers are also doing some pretty good work with the rolling mills. The small mill is averaging about fourteen tons at a turn, which is said by one in a position to know, to exceed the output of the mills at the old shops in the East. The works are already making a record for fast car building. Yesterday two gangs of four men each built two cars in eight hours. One gang was composed of four Pullman car builders and the other of three Duluth men and one Huntington man. The cars were taken away shortly after the time they had been in the business.

The social at the residence of Rev. William Moore was largely attended last evening and was highly enjoyed by all present. A branch organization of the Brotherhood of Railway and Shipbuilding was formed in West Duluth by R. E. McLean, the regularly appointed organizer. H. P. Downs, the grocery man, made an assignment today to C. W. Hoyt. L. S. Thomas is the attorney. The assets will probably amount to $500, the liabilities $1200.

The law class meets tonight for the regular lesson and for the election of officers.

A new organization in the West Duluth Debating society. The first meeting will be held next Wednesday evening.

Iron merchants of Minneapolis have placed an order with the Minnesota Iron Car company for 120 tons of finished iron. Several orders have preceded this one from this firm, and they express themselves well satisfied with the iron furnished. A large amount of merchant work is being done by the Car works.

WHAT THEY THINK.

Leading Authorities Herein in Favor of the Seating Matches.

An article in The Herald last night on the project of the famous oarsman, Ned Hanlon, to bring here the leading scullers in the world for an important sporting event next summer has stirred up very general interest. The project has met with almost universal commendation, and has created a great deal of talk about town, and most people seem to believe that it will be an easy matter to raise the needed guarantee to get the oarsmen here.

Said one man today very prominent in business and social circles: "The idea is a splendid one and I want to see it carried out. There couldn't be a better scheme for Duluth in the line of sports than this, and nothing would so increase our own appreciation of our superb water course or so aid the boatclub as would bring them all. It would draw a great number of people from the Twin cities, all other parts of Minnesota, many from Wisconsin, from Winnipeg and Manitoba, as well as a great many interested in boating and kindred sports from all over the country. By all means let us have the races."

And the Herald thinks so too.

Still as Iowa Tie.

Howers Taken, Half Were Left.

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The British steamer Titicaca, which has arrived after a tempestuous voyage of eighteen days from London, brought seven shipwrecked sailors, but no others who sailed from New York on Jan. 6, on board the Norwegian ship Josephine for Dantzic. The others were lost at sea.

ON THE UNION PACIFIC.

Particulars of the Accident of Sunday in Which Nine Were Killed.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—The following additional particulars of the railroad accident which occurred Sunday last on the Union Pacific near Cascade Locks on the Columbia river and in it nine men were killed and 18 were wounded. The train consisted of the engine, tender and 18 coaches, and had on board about thirty-five hikers who were on their way to clear the track of ice. When the engine had almost cleared the trestle, which was about fifty feet in length, the under-pinning supporting the second and third trestles were washed away by the roaring torrent of the Columbia underneath, and the tender, with the caboose and its occupants were hurled into the ravine forty feet below.

Engineer George, when he felt that something was wrong, looked back, and when he saw the caboose swaying, pulled the throttle wide open, and just succeeded in reaching the end of the trestle, with his two back driving wheels hanging clear of the track, as the caboose and the dead men were taken away shortly after the accident except Wm. Cole, a section man, who was buried beneath the debris, and whose body it was impossible to recover until today, when it had to be pulled out with ropes. The trestle had been inspected only a short time before, and it was thought to be in a safe condition.

Following are the names of those killed: Jerry Pusey, Fred Martindale, Andrew Frost, Theodore Skoldhime, August Carson, Charles Restoff, John Schroeder, Henry Crouche, William Cole. All the dead were taken away shortly after the accident except Wm. Cole, a section man, who was buried beneath the debris, and whose body it was impossible to recover until today, when it had to be pulled out with ropes. The trestle had been inspected only a short time before, and it was thought to be in a safe condition.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Feb. 6.—Two freight trains, one bound east loaded with cattle and the other bound west loaded with coal, plaster, etc., collided at Yarmouth Center, four miles east of this place, late last night. The westbound train when on the main line had the right of way. The accident happened at a switch where the double track becomes single, and the eastbound train was supposed to come to a stop, but failed to do so. The engines struck with terrific force. Twenty-five empty cars are wrecked and the eastbound train is in connection with a great mass.

Belinger's petition for abatement of taxes of lots 37 and 39, Second street, Pusey tract, was returned. A bill for cost of 124 Austin, ex-officio, was ordered paid. The question was submitted to the county attorney whether the board had authority to allow more than $100 per annum for stationery for any one office. County commissioners have decided to limit at $100 per month. Court house committee recommended that balance of the McMillan & Co. be allowed, less $100; carried. The poor commissioner's report for January was submitted, and the poor report, which showed expenses for the month $227.96.

The county fathers are busy considering an avalanche of bills today, among which are the numerous ones incident to the present term of court.

MINERS ENTOMBED.

Three Hundred Colliery Miners Imprisoned; Many Will Doubtless Die.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—An explosion occurred today in a colliery at Aberystwyth in North Wales, ten miles north-west of Newport. Three hundred miners were imprisoned, and for several hours no communication could be had with them. An opening was finally effected, and by noon 200 of them had been rescued. A number of these taken out are severely injured. Rescuing parties are still searching for those remaining in the mine.

Later—it is feared that it will be impossible to rescue the miners who are still imprisoned. The owners of the colliery estimate that 120 persons have lost their lives by the explosion.

Up to 6 o'clock this afternoon forty bodies had been taken from the mine. Fifty miners are still imprisoned. It is known whether they are dead or alive.

FOR THAT SHIP CANAL.

That Old Scheme for a Lake Michigan Canal Wants $75,000.

In Congress, the News of a Day From the Nation's Capital.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Senator Stockbridge introduced a bill today appropriating $50,000 for making a survey for a ship canal from Lake Superior to Lake Michigan. It provides for the survey to be made from Little Bay De Noc north to Lake Superior. This is preliminary to cutting a canal from one lake to the other should the plan prove feasible after an investigation.

The distance is about forty miles. It would be necessary to have locks. The canal would shorten the distance between Duluth and Chicago 400 miles, and in case of any disaster to the Sault canal, ships could pass by the way of De Noc. And in case of war with Canada the canal would be far from the border and not next the Canadian line. Such a canal would be of great importance to the shipping interest of Lake Superior and Lake Michigan, and the commercial interests near it. A similar bill will soon be introduced in the house.

THE EATON-MERRITT.

The Contest on this Once-Named Property Soon Settled.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The famous Duluth and patent case is likely to be decided almost any day now. Since the mass of testimony came into the hands of Secretary Noble he has been diligently at work trying to wade through it. "There are exactly 400 pages of typewritten foolscap," said he, "so you can see for yourself that it is no easy task for me to complete it. I am about done, however, and a decision from me is sure in the near future."

This battle between the rival claimants has been hard fought. It was a contest to the finish. And there is considerable interest in connection with the case since it was brought to Washington. H. A. Brown of Minneapolis, the attorney for the Mallé people, left Minneapolis on Nov. 3, expecting to be absent two weeks at the outside. He left his business with that office in mind, and his family with the same expectations. He has been absent just three months. He says his business has been neglected at home and there has been a great many other disadvantages.

Mr. Mallé accompanied Brown here, and he also expected to be absent a fortnight. He is here still. The case is costing both sides a great amount of money. The arguments continued for just two weeks and Brown has since that time devoted every day to the case. Mallé came here with $1800 expenses in his pocket. He has since drawn an additional $2500. But if he wins this expense will be a mere tag-along. The land controversy is minor property and is valued at all the way from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000.

These are Selected.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The President today sent to the senate the following nominations: Thos. Killenre to be surveyor of customs at San Francisco. To be collector of customs: Alan W. ## GRAVES FOR GOVERNOR.

Correspondents Pick Him Out as a Likely Rod for Lightning.

A Move that Would Please a Neglected Section of the State.

View the Iron Mines; Depressed Whisky Traders in a Row.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—"For Governor of Minnesota, Col. C. H. Graves of St. Louis county."

This may be the rallying cry of the Duluth people as the Minnesota republican convention next fall. Since the arrival of Col. Graves in Washington and his admirable speech before the committee in favor of the Soo canal, there have been rumors floating about among the Minnesota politicians here that he might be trotted out as a well grounded gubernatorial candidate by the Republicans of northern Minnesota.

Last summer one of the Duluth dailies, The Herald, in an editorial strongly advocated Col. Graves candidacy for the governorship. While the colonel and nothing, it is not known what ambitions this little announcement might have created in his breast. Col. Graves is the most popular man in that section of the state. He has always been able to get any office he has tried for. He was elected to the lower house in the state legislature two years ago by a big majority, and after a hard fight, defeated Mr. Morgan, the Washington candidate for speaker, by a good majority. He made a good record as the leading officer of the house. He fought hard for the interests of his constituents and made some enemies by his course, but he was, taken all in all, a popular speaker.

Duluth has not been pleased with the usage she has received from any state administration during the last ten years. Mr. Morgan gained the county of Duluth in making up his appointments two years ago. For this reason Duluth will be "again" Mr. Morgan's fair, without doubt. They may want to put forward a candidate of their own this year, and if they do Col. Graves will be the man.

TO GO TOMORROW.

To View the Iron Mines on the Duluth & Winnipeg Road.

A large party of Duluth & Winnipeg officials leave St. Paul this evening on special train for the Diamond mines on the Prairie river, frequently mentioned here. The party will arrive here tomorrow and will be joined by several members of the company from here. They will go up the line of the road to the end of track and thence by train or on foot to the mines. A thorough examination will be made and the party will get back Sunday morning.

The object of this visit is to finally decide on whether the road will build a branch to the mines and along on the route to be followed. There is practically no doubt that the decision will be to build an informal assurance have already been given and as the mines are said by experts to be very valuable. A large amount of ore is already on the dump and its assays, as printed in The Herald three months ago, are high. It is now expected that these mines will ship 500 or 700 tons daily during the season of 1930.

A DEPRESSED SQUAD.

Court Commissioner Carey Has His Hands Full Warring off Temptation.

A PHILANTHROPIC FIRM.

A Feminine Firm that is Gaining Lots of Business.

Stokely & Burke is the name of a firm recently started in business on West Fourth street. Contrary to the usual custom, the firm is not doing any advertising or making any effort to increase its trade. Second-hand clothing is the line engaged in, and the newly established company is doing a land office business. They do not take the measure of their customers and they deliver the goods without money and without price. The poorer families are visited, their needs found out and clothing supplied as the exigencies of the case seem to call for.

Everyone will wish the firm every success, and it is hoped others with the same end in view will organize and do business on the same principle. Parties having clothing to donate cannot do better than to hand it over to the firm, who will see that the cast-off garments find their way to the needy. The firm will be placed where they will do the most good. The firm positively will not be undersold. All goods warranted to be just as good as represented.

BERNHARDT WILL NOT PLAY.

Unfamiliarity With the English Language Makes Her Decline an Offer.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—Miss Sarah Bernhardt regrets her inability to play the part of Romeo to Miss Margaret Mathers Juliet on account of not speaking English sufficiently well.

"Is it true, madam, that you think of making the part of Romeo, as asserted?" was the query of the correspondent who had the privilege of entering the dressing room of the artist between the first and second acts of "Romeo and Juliet."

Miss Bernhardt was being rapidly transformed from a peasant maid to a warrior, and her replies came from behind a tall screen which concealed her face and active maids.

"O no," said the actress. "I cannot do it. I should like to take the part and feel it would be a great success if I could only speak English well enough to give the audience pleasure."

"Why not try it in French to Juliet's English?" the correspondent asked.

"It would not be the same thing. I could not do it justice. I may play well in French, but I would never try such an experiment."

BAD IN THE WOODS.

Grip Knocks Out the Calculations of Michigan Loggers.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Feb. 6.—An old lumberman of this city, who has just returned from a logging camp, says: "Never in my experience as a lumberman have I seen logging operations so retarded at this time of the year. The snow is deep in the woods here and the weather has been most favorable to successful work. In one of my camps out of a crew of over sixty men, nearly one half were completely prostrated with the grip."

The disease does not seem to have reached the lumber districts till recently, but its ravages are terrible. Being far from medical aid, the lumbermen are, of course, denied many of the remedies which are prescribed by physicians, and although everything possible is done for their comfort, their surroundings are such that they are, as a rule, laid up for a greater length of time than persons similarly afflicted in the cities and towns.

DULUTH STOCKHOLDERS DO IT.

The Agitation Over the American Causus Its Enforced Suspension.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—Bank Examiner Kenyon finds it has cost the American Building & Loan association $200,000 to conduct a business of $1,200,000 two years, and recommends that the attorney-general order the concern to wind up its affairs. The American's paper capital is $100,000. Its headquarters are here and its stock is held in every state north of the Ohio. An especially large amount of money was invested in the concern by Massachusetts and Connecticut people.

Examiner Kenyon says: "The association after having been in business for two years or more, shows a deficit of $74,718.28, notwithstanding that the stockholders have paid to its agents, in addition above $200,000 in administrative fees used for expenses of the agents."

The association not only wants from subscribers the payment of the above fees but also exacts from the above almost the entire expense of expenses connected with making loans, thus making the shortage in assets to appear as having been brought about by the expenses of raising, caring for and disbursing the receipts. I know of no loaning business that can safely be pursued where the expense for all purposes reaches anything like 6 per cent of the total sum, as it has here."

A DANIEL TO JUDGMENT.

He Sits on St. Paul's Scheme for Development by Water Power.

A Bad Bite for the Factory Boomers in the Twin Cities.

Below will be found an expression of City Engineer Rinker of Minneapolis, on the question of steam vs. water power, that will prove of interest. St. Paul and Minneapolis are trying by every means in their power to locate the manufacturing interests, and expect to do so by the utilization of Meeker Island water power, which is to be used at the dam or conveyed by electricity to all parts of the city. If Mr. Rinker's remarks are true, he should know whereof he speaks, the project is a useless one.

City Engineer Rinker of Minneapolis makes statements which will cause considerable surprise, and may furnish material for a deal of discussion. In a word, he throws cold water on the plan of developing vast industrial enterprises with the Meeker Island water power; he claims that water power is not so much cheaper as it is cracked up to be, and in proof of this statement he states that city water is being pumped at the new north side steam station more cheaply than it is used to be in the stations at the falls.

Mr. Rinker has put in some study on the much talked of Meeker Island project, and has become very much of a skeptic. At the risk of being denounced as unpatriotic he would give vent to his doubts. With all the advance that is being made toward economy in steam power, he believes that water power is not an advantage. The St. Anthony Water Power company estimate the flow of water in the river at the present stage, which is the lowest ever known, at 1,200 cubic feet a second. They calculate that a dam at Meeker Island would give a head of twenty-seven feet.

With this data he estimates the amount of power available under such conditions as 400 horse power, the maximum amount that could be obtained at the present low stage of water. It is a fact well understood by mill owners that under the most favorable circumstances not more than 53 per cent of the full power is available by the use of any water wheel. Mr. Rinker doesn't think that more than 75 per cent of 350 horse power is available under such conditions as 400 horse power total.

It is on the basis of the minimum power, Mr. Rinker argues, that all such matters must be calculated. A water power equal to only 350 horse power necessitates a steam plant in connection with it to run a portion of the year and the idle during the rest. It means that a dam at Meeker Island would require a dam and full water power equipment and steam plants in addition.

A total of 350 horse power represented by very little more than is required to run the Pillsbury A mill, and as regards four production it is capable of an output of some 5000 barrels each day. To Mr. Rinker's way of thinking, inasmuch as steam plants would have to be put in anyway, there would be very little economy in any scheme to develop the power at that point. Steam power would be just as economical and a good deal more satisfactory.

The city engineer is not an enthusiastic believer in the steam power. He has had some substantial experience in this matter since coming to Minneapolis. He looks for the time when steam will largely supersede water. It has got to the stage now where under the ordinary conditions it is practically cheaper. Especially is this so in Minneapolis. The rapid development in the efficiency of the steam engine has made it a chief cause of it.

For many years up to a few weeks ago the water supply of the city was pumped by water power during a large portion of the year. Steam plants were in use during the stage of lowest water, but in the main water power was relied upon. The statistics of these stations for the past three years show that the cost of pumping the water was between 8¢ and 7¢ a million gallons. Now the new North Side plant is doing all the work by steam, and for less money. The work is being done for from 8¢ to 8½ a million gallons. And the other is so much less than under the old system as to stamp a success from every point of view.

This is a very unexpected state of things. When the North Side station was started it was a little more economical, the public must be a little more economical in the use of water. From these facts it would seem that the cry of economy ought to have been taken up some years ago. A few years ago it took between two and three pounds of coal to make one horse power; today the same power is being generated from one and one third pounds of coal.

AROUND THE WORLD.

There was a time when a man who had circled the globe was a fine day's wonder, and if dime museum managers had existed then, the traveled individual would have been exhibited as a "freak." Now such a voyage is so common that we have ceased to regard the world's circumference of 25,000 miles as anything large. But distance can be measured in another way—the difficulty and expense of overcoming it. The Burlington system of railroads has 700 miles of track. Do you realize what a lot of rails it would take to string out 14,000 miles in a single line? How much money they would cost? How many great cities and thriving towns you would pass in traveling that distance? Buy a ticket over Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, a prompt cure is reasonably certain. That remedy is well suited for a severe cold and this remedy covers precisely the same treatment. For sale by Joyce & Tolman.

FROM DESPAIR TO JOY.

The Painful Story of a Lovely Lady, and How She Finally Secured Happiness.

Mrs. Morton D. Harlan, residing at No. 68 West 25th Street, New York City, has passed through a most wonderful experience. Mrs. Harlan had a happy home and through her devotion to her home duties over-laid her strength. She had depressed feelings, entire lack of energy to life, and finally a cough at night and morning which grew worse each day. Upon looking in the glass she saw dark circles under her eyes and that she was growing thinner and losing all interest in life. This painful state of things continued for months until finally she became so weak she could not attend to her duties and was confined to her bed the greater part of the time. One day Mrs. Harlan's very dear friend Mrs. Willard called and was amazed to see her so weak and faded. Two bright bottles were stood upon each cheek, her lips were blue, her face pinched and drawn, her hair was a piteous look in her eyes. Mrs. Willard knew the means of consumption, but her heart was touched for her friend. At her earnest request, she sold her bottle of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

The reason of this simple story should be plain to all. It is a plain story of a woman who had the first symptoms of consumption, which she neglected until it became so terrible that she was taken in time. This story, however, has saved the lives of hundreds of well known men and women who were on the verge of the grave from consumption but who are well and happy today. It is sold universally.

LAST EDITION.

ARRAIGNS THE RUSSIANS.

Letters From "Political" to George Kennan Tell of Terror.

How They Were Shot Down by Cossacks for a Word of Dissent.

Government has Steadily Denied the Truth of the Story.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Mr. George Kennan, now lecturing here on Siberia, has given to the Associated press a resume of voluminous correspondence lately received by him relating to the massacre of Russian administrative exiles at Yakutsk on April 3, last, the occurrence of which has been tidily strenuously denied by the Russian government.

Mr. Kennan declares the communications to be of the most impartial character and even unimpassioned in tone, and says they are to be thoroughly relied on, but he withholds the names of his correspondents, as the publication would involve them in trouble with the Russian administration.

"As I appear," said Mr. Kennan, "towards the latter part of February last thirty-three political exiles on their way to Verkhoyansk and Sredni-Kolyansk were quartered temporarily at Yakutsk, the first named place being distant from St. Petersburg 5335 and 7415 miles respectively, in a part of Siberia so remote from civilization that it is seldom if ever visited by human beings. The story of Mr. Kennan's correspondents agrees in many particulars with the accounts lately published in the London Times, and the language of the writers is at times most graphic. They write the former governor of the province of Yakutsk, Gen. Sushetaki, had done all in his power to see that exiles in his charge were forwarded as comfortably as possible to this inhospitable region, but he was promoted to the government of the province of Irkutsk, his successor, Gen. Ostashev, gave great dissatisfaction to exiles by the announcement of certain cruel and arbitrary rules which prevented proper equipment for their journey, one rule being so manifestly impracticable as to demand that persons returning from one of the latest post contractors in the province. Another rule curtailed the amount of baggage, and one-half which an exile was permitted to carry.

Under the Russian penal code is a criminal offense for political exiles to unite in a petition for redress of grievances. Each exile, therefore, prepared a separate petition and presented it to the office of the province. Kennan's letters go on to tell how they were directed to assemble in the house of one of the exiles, where there were told that the governor regarded their individual petitions as merely an evasion of law and their action equivalent to open rebellion.

"At 10 o'clock the next day," writes these actual participants in the detailed affairs, "we met again in Nod's house to the number of thirty-three. Among us were Sergius Kugler and his brother, Anna Zornova, the latter quite a young girl, and a man who had come in from one of the Yakutsk settlements to make some purchases. These came to the house to see their fellow exiles. At 10:30 the police overtook us, brought a verbal order to disperse, and then, without warning, waiting by orders of the chief of police, Olesoff turned on his heel saying: 'Then I understand you will not come?'

"We said no such thing but wanted to know from the chief what he expected. A company of Cossacks, numbering over twenty men under command of an officer named Karamzin, then appeared, battered down the gates of the courtyard and fifteen or twenty entered the house, while the others surrounded it.

"We were assembled in a room about 20 feet square and crowded in one corner from which position the Cossacks endeavored to oust us by striking us with their clubbed rifles and pricking us with their bayonets. Some women being wounded quite severely began to scream. Cartridges had been served out to the soldiers the night before, and they then fired point blank into a miscellaneous crowd of men and women."

"Five of the exiles had revolvers which they had bought as a means of protection on their journey, and not for any purpose of resisting authorities. One of them, Zolot, drew his revolver, sprang up and shouted 'Stop! Stop!' The firing then became general. After one or two volleys the soldiers withdrew and the whole Cossack force outside poured in their fire through the doors and windows. Schur, one of our number, rushed into the courtyard crying, 'We surrender!' but was shot dead. Poltschak, who heard the firing and ran to see what the matter was, was shot dead by the gate. He was not implicated, and was within two months of the termination of his exile. Joseph Eastrovich, already wounded, rushed into the courtyard, fell and was repeatedly bayoneted as he lay on the ground.

"As a result of this affray six of us, including one woman, were killed outright. Her stomach was all torn open by a bayonet. All of us were more or less injured. At the first lull in the firing Zolot ran out. It does not appear for what purpose. There he saw Governor Ostashev, who he believed to be responsible. He drew his revolver and fired. But for this there might have been no more shooting. Zolot was killed by the governor and the soldiers recommenced firing. After two or three volleys this firing was stopped by Capt. Vaschek."

The list of casualties were one soldier killed and the governor and a soldier slightly wounded. The exiles killed were six. Twelve others were severely wounded.

Three months later the survivors were tried by court martial on the charge of armed resistance. Three of them were hanged. Kennan interprets the trial as being severely wounded and was unable to stand, was taken to the scaffold on a cot board from the hospital, the nose put around his neck and the cot taken from under him. He was choked to death. Fourteen others, including four women, were sentenced for different terms ranging from ten to fifteen years.

"I consider this information received from Russia," said Mr. Kennan, "so minute and circumstantial in every detail, and knowing as I do the reliability of its source, to be a complete and convincing answer to recent denials of the Russian government, which were published in The New York Tribune about two weeks ago. Mr. Talbot, president of the Great Howard association of England, says that every effort will be made to bring this matter before the international prison congress which will meet in St. Petersburg.

"If the Russian government will permit it, and is ready to meet the issue, I will undertake to prove to this prison congress every charge that I have arrayed against it. In substantiation of the charges, I am prepared to bring my witnesses from Siberia and to defy the whole course of law. But I fear my challenge will be ignored."

"TIS HIS LIFE WORK.

Secretary Tracy Will Stay in the Navy Department.

New York, Feb. 7.—Gen. Isaac S. Catlin, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graves, his daughter and son-in-law, arrived here from Washington last night. He was in his office in the Garfield building and in answer to a question as to the possibility of Secretary Tracy retiring to private life because of his bereavement, he said: "I am not going to leave the navy department and it will take a long time to bring him around, but he will persevere in his life's work, and he is not only suffering from the mental shock, but the inhalation of smoke has affected him physically. In the supreme moment of his suffering he said that if he could not go on with the work which he had begun in the navy department, he could not live. All his friends, including President Harrison, J. S. T. Stranahan and Gen. James Jordan, have advised him that every consideration demands the stay at his post and he will. At this time occupation for his mind will be his salvation."

"My family," the general, "has lived here for over twenty years, and in this city Gen. Tracy achieved the great triumph of his life. When he was in the navy department he was in the navy, and he was finally retired at Owego, but Brooklyn's first citizen said that Greenwood was the place. The final retirement will be private and without any demonstration whatever."

In reply to a question as to whether the secretary of the navy had any personal experiences during the fire, Gen. Catlin replied: "I had an hour's talk with him one day, and he told me that he had only one lucid interval after waking from sleep before losing consciousness. He was surrounded by his family and he remembers calling out, 'My God! We are all lost!' His last words were, 'I am not going to bend over him at Mr. Bancroft's house.'"

The general then fondly alluded to the great tenderness of President Harrison and his family toward the living and the dead.

TREATY WITH ENGLAND.

Nothing in It Objectable to Nationalist Members.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The nationalist members of parliament have studied the new treaty with Great Britain which has been negotiated by Mr. Blaine and is now awaiting the action of the House of Commons.

Despite the assurances that have been given, they have been fearful that it might contain something or other that would give Great Britain a pull on political refugees, and enable that government to procure in the future the extradition of individuals who, as a result of their activity in the cause of home rule, might find it necessary to flee their native land. The Atlantic between themselves and their opponents. They have satisfied themselves, however, that the treaty is altogether free from objections in this regard, and have so intimated to senatorial friends in this city.

ANOTHER CONVENT.

Senator Colquhoun to Lecture on Temperance.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—United States Senator A. H. Colquhoun of Georgia has allied himself with the platform organization of the temperance cause, and has been named as the speaker at the national convention of the United States Temperance Society, which will be held at the city of New York.

Considerable opposition to this measure has been manifested by the vessel men of Cleveland, Chicago and other cities, and a large number of remonstrances have been sent here for presentation to the committee. It is contended that there can be no overloading on the lakes because of the shallow rivers and harbors, and that consequently the bill will serve no purpose except to create a new class of oiler loaded vessels. Delegates from the leading marine cities are also here to oppose the bill.

Farwell's Independence.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 7.—There has been a good deal of talk during the past few weeks regarding what has been considered the unpopular course of the United States Senator Charles B. Farwell in antagonizing the leading republicans of this state in the attitude which he has taken toward the President in the matter of appointments. Private advices from Washington, however, say that this independence can be explained by the fact that the senator is not a candidate for re-election. He has had enough of political honors and conditions of his health would make it impossible for him to serve another term.

A Turnverein Band.

A new brass band is to be started at the East End by a number of members of the Turnverein. There will be about fifteen pieces. The instruments have been ordered and rehearsals will commence at once. Most of the members of the new band are skilled musicians and it is their intention to give a band concert at an early date.

A CALL FOR ACTION.

Col. Graves Wants the Help of Duluthians for the Sault.

What Must be Done Must be Done Quickly if to be of Use.

The following letter, received by The Herald from Col. C. H. Graves, who is at Washington, working in the interest of the Sault canal, explains itself:

To the Editor of the Herald: Permit me through your valuable paper to suggest to the citizens of Duluth and Superior how they can assist in promoting the bill for full appropriation to complete the Sault Ste. Marie canal.

It is very important to have a favorable report from the committee on rivers and harbors of the house of representatives. That committee is composed of fifteen members from as many different states. I do not doubt that citizens of Duluth and Superior are acquainted with each of those gentlemen, who would if requested, write to the representative and urge his favorable action on our bill.

So I will give you the names of members of the committee that we do not feel sure of, and explain what districts they represent. If there are any residents on Lake Superior who know people in those districts I beg them to write at once and persuade those friends to help us with their congressmen.

Mr. J. H. Henderson, chairman of the committee, is from the Seventh district of Illinois, composed of Bureau, Henry, Lee, Putnam and Whiteside counties. Hennepin and Fulton and Dixon are prominent towns in that district.

Mr. C. H. Groves is from the Fifth district of Ohio, Athens, Washington and Coshocton counties. The older man made a rush for his honor, but the city marshal restrained him. The investigation ceased, the council adopting a resolution demanding that the mayor turn over to the city treasurer $500.20.

Mr. G. E. Bowden is from the Second district of Virginia, the Norfolk district and the cities of Norfolk, Portsmouth and Williamsburg.

Mr. C. B. Clark of Wisconsin is from the district which includes Oshkosh, Neenah and Appleton.

Mr. J. H. Moffitt is from the Lake Champlain district of New York. Plattsburgh and Malone are in it.

Mr. C. C. Townsend is from western Pennsylvania, Beaver, Butler, Lawrence and Mercer counties.

Mr. F. G. Niedringhaus is from the city of St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. R. E. Lester from Savannah, Georgia, and Mr. Clark is from Mobile, Alabama.

Letters to each of these gentlemen from their constituents will do more good than a great deal of argument. And change of getting the bill through the house is now good enough to warrant us in taking a good deal of trouble in the matter. Whatever is to be done must be done immediately to be of service.

Very respectfully yours,
CHAS. H. GRAVES,
Washington, Feb. 5, 1930.

An Unusual Spectacle.

New York, Feb. 7.—The unusual spectacle of a benefit performance for the financial aid of a daughter-in-law of a secretary of state will be witnessed in this city next week. The beneficiary is Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., and the promoters a large number of prominent society ladies. The Broadway theater has been donated for the purpose, and Mr. and Mrs. Kendall, Mr. Mansfield, Elsie Leach and other performers have donated their services. The announcements say that the benefit is a token of regard and sympathy with the unfortunate young woman in her illness.

At the United States.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The new protective treaty which the committee on French customs proposed to substitute for the various existing treaties is aimed especially at the United States. It fixes a tariff absolutely prohibitory on all commodities of French manufacture and tradersmen need protection, but discriminates in favor of those countries which give French commercial advantages.

The Patent Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Representative Butterworth, as chairman of the committee on patents, will have a conference with Secretary Blaine today in reference to the house resolution providing for the sending of delegates to the international patent congress to be held at Madrid. The committee has decided to decline to recommend the passage of private bills for the extension of patents and also to refer all bills for claims arising out of or infringement of patents to the committee on claims.

Cut Rates and Time.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The announcement of the Burlington, Omaha and Milwaukee roads that they will reduce their running time from Minneapolis to Chicago, to thirteen hours will, it is said, result in the Wisconsin Central and St. Louis line demanding a differential, they being longer, which if refused will force them to cut rates. It is rumored the Omaha will soon restore rates and reduce its time to twelve, perhaps eleven hours.

The Usual Way.

BUFFALO, Feb. 7.—The jury in the libel case of Rev. Dr. Ball against The New York Evening Post this afternoon returned a verdict of "no cause for action."

The Fireman's Annual.

The Duluth fire department is making arrangements for its annual ball, to take place the 21st of this month. A committee of arrangements has the affair in charge, and full particulars will be announced later.

Cheap money. We have money to loan in any sums on Real estate, improved or unimproved, at very low rates. Borrowers and parties intending to build should call at once. No commission. F. W. SMITH, Sec., Metropolitan Block.

NED HANLAN'S CHALLENGE.

He Sends It Out; Half the Regatta Prizes to Come from Railways.

At the forthcoming August regatta, which now bids fair to be one of the most brilliant aquatic events ever known, in addition to the magnificent total purse of $10,000 it is probable that an added purse of $5000 will be given for a world's championship race in single sculls between O'Connor, Hanlan and others. Hanlan, who inspected the course proposed with several members of the boat club, announced yesterday evening at Temple Opera that he would challenge the winner of the forthcoming race between O'Connor and the Australian to a race in singles for the world's championship on the waters of St. Louis bay for the purse put up, or he would row any living man here on the same conditions.

If the challenge is accepted, and it is almost certain that it will be, the course will be three miles—one and one-half straight away and turn. There is no event in sporting circles that would pose anything like the amount of interest in this aquatic event of this magnitude would. The gains of the race will always be a drawing card and at least a few people could be counted on as spectators from outside places during the race.

The Herald fund for the great international regatta at Duluth next July now amounts to $1000, and only three names are on the list. The Eastern States regatta, with characteristic generosity, was put down by President H. D. Minot for $500, with a contingent subscription of 10 per cent on the receipts from the excursion passenger business to this city during the regatta. The other railways between this city and St. Paul, and Chicago, will do as well. The Herald has the list of Duluth subscriptions with $250 and Mr. Jay V. Anderson has subscribed that amount.

As soon as the railroad and boat lines have heard from active collection of subscriptions from the citizens will begin. There is every reason to believe that Duluth will have next summer the greatest regatta the world has ever seen.

HARD ON A MAYOR.

The Aldermen Compel Him to Turn Back Some Local Money.

CHICAGO, Iowa, Feb. 7.—There was a lively scene in the city hall yesterday evening, during the progress of the mayor's investigation, when Mayor Patterson stigmatized Alderman Vickers as a contemptible scoundrel. The older man made a rush for his honor, but the city marshal restrained him. The investigation ceased, the council adopting a resolution demanding that the mayor turn over to the city treasurer $500.20.

Mr. Woodruff, the most active spirit in the prosecution, publicly acquitted the mayor of intending wrong, and the mayor expressed regret for his harsh and contemptuous conduct.

Mr. C. C. Townsend is from western Pennsylvania, Beaver, Butler, Lawrence and Mercer counties.

Mr. F. G. Niedringhaus is from the city of St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. R. E. Lester from Savannah, Georgia, and Mr. Clark is from Mobile, Alabama.

Letters to each of these gentlemen from their constituents will do more good than a great deal of argument. ## THE BEST IN THE LAND.

Cannot Surpass Duluth's Superior New High School Building.

A Full and Accurate Description of the Accepted Plans.

Duluth's Most Important Building so Far in Her Life.

Yesterday afternoon the school board held the most important session it has known for a long time, important because the plans of the new high school were adopted, and important also because, incidentally, that the Duluth school board and its architects are in the front rank of progress in details of school construction.

Every Duluthian can not but be greatly interested in the plans of the new school that the Herald takes pleasure in detailing below. The building will be of stone, probably red sandstone, and pressed brick, with ornaments of carved stone and terra cotta. It will present a front of 281 feet along Second street and extending back toward Third street 120 feet. It will have a high basement, and will be entirely of stone to the water table above the basement, and will have three stories above, the upper being a roof story with attractive dormers and gables. It will be of modern Romanesque, probably the most attractive style of architecture extant for such a building. And in accordance with this style, its ornamentation will be massed in detail, and will be very beautiful. Its main feature of exterior will be a square tower, rising from the center of the front, to a height of 200 feet. At a height of 150 feet above Superior street is to be a large clock, illuminated.

The entire building will cost between $200,000 and $225,000. The shape of the great structure will be somewhat unusual for schools. Its front of 281 feet is set back 80 feet from Second street and reaches from within 60 feet of Lake avenue to the same distance west of First avenue. The main building is 80 feet deep, and from its center will push back an addition 70 feet wide and 100 feet long, reaching nearly to Third street. Thus the building will have the shape of an inverted T, thus.

To pass to the inside one ascends the flight of stone steps, 60 feet broad, at the center of the front and passes under three great Roman arches of monstrous strength to a tiled and ornamented vestibule, 25 by 50 feet. Here he is in a corridor running the length and breadth of the building. Or he may enter either end of the main structure by handsome doorways to the same corridor. At either side of the main entrance, and in the rear of the main structure, rise the broad stairways. These go to the upper floor in small ways that not only add to the appearance of the building, but give more room and light to the stairs. There is also another wide stairway in a similar bay at the Third street end of the extension.

Let the examiner of the plans begin at the basement floor. Here are considerably over 50,000 square feet of surface, more than an acre. The massiveness of construction can be seen in the plans for this basement by the great masonry piers and buttresses arranged for. In the center of the basement floor is a boy's industrial manual training school, eighty feet square, with high ceiling, supported by columns. Joining this is the room of the chief engineer of the building, close, etc., while on the west side of the basement are to be a cooking schoolroom 30x75 feet, most costly arranged, with a semi-circular bay windows a girl's gymnasium, 40 feet square and to be well fitted up, and a sewing school also nearly 40 feet square. Next are several rooms designed for home of the janitor, but the board will probably make here a modeling room. In the rear extension of this floor will be boys' toilet rooms, storerooms and a great room unappropriated as yet about 75x80 feet in size. There will also be other rooms, closets, etc., on this floor.

On the first or entrance floor the entire east end and nearly all the rear extension is taken up by class and recitation rooms. On the west side of the beautiful entrance will be offices of the superintendent of schools, the secretary of the board, and an office for the board itself fitted with line-proof vaults, etc. Besides these there will also be on this side two classrooms, and an elegant library room, capable of holding 800 volumes and lighted by an artistic semicircular bay. There will be eleven classrooms on the floor. In the library and in the superintendent's room will be carved stone grates.

According to broad and easy steps to the second floor we enter the long, wide corridor and see ten classrooms on either side of it. There are on this floor no classrooms in the extension, but it is fitted up for a great assembly and study hall. It is 75x100 feet and 20 feet high with true roof. There is a handsome stage 25x25 feet, and a balcony on two sides and the rear. This room will seat, if fitted with desks, 500 scholars, if with chairs 1,000, and the balcony will accommodate 500 more, so there will be room at commencement or other public exercises for 1,500 people. On this same floor, in the center of the front, is a large and convenient principal's room.

The third and upper story is now reached. It is devoted exclusively to what may be called the more comprehensive and modern departments of school work. At the east end will be a large museum for all classes of local and Northwestern mineral, physical, animal and other specimens. Next to it will be a room devoted to the art of taxidermy. Next to this will be laboratories, physical, photographic and chemical, while a very large room, as yet unassigned, will also be used as a general laboratory. On this floor, too, will be a boy's gymnasium, 60 feet square and 20 feet high, to be fitted with all muscle-making appliances. A drawing club, also, 40x20 feet, is on the same floor. All room in the extension is taken up by the balcony and clerestory of the large hall.

To recapitulate. The entire building has 21 classrooms, each about 30 by 32 feet, and an important point to be attained, all so placed that each has light at the back and left side of every student. These rooms will accommodate 1,000 to 1,200 scholars, while the study room will hold as many more. That physical training, natural sciences and the work of the artisan is fully looked out for is shown above. It is seen that there are but two stories of classrooms, and the cloakrooms and toilets are so placed that up and down stair traveling will be reduced to a minimum, but even this the board desires to reduce, so a row of toilet rooms on either side the main entrance to the top floor is to be arranged that at any time they may be taken out and passenger elevators substituted. These will probably not be put in at first.

The subject of ventilation and heating will receive great attention. There will be no competition from rival manufacturers of systems, but Messrs. Palmer & Hall, the architects, are now in conference with noted sanitary engineers, one of whom will supervise the entire system. What is to be used is, speaking roughly, the Hoton vacuum system, consisting of a series of blast and exhaust fans, a new process and claimed to be far ahead of anything yet in vogue.

It is claimed, by those who should know, that this school will be the best of its kind in the entire United States, though it may not be so large or so costly as some of the others in the country. We have tried to glean from each the best features, both of style, ventilation, and modern school construction. There is no reason why we should not have the best? I don't think there is, and I believe we've got it. Certain it is we did not see in our travels a more progressive or alive school board than this.

The architects have been sinking test pits lately, and have decided to put all foundations clear down to solid rock. It may cost a little more, but not much, for the rock is near the surface there.

WEST END.

Mr. Burdick (Closes). Some Past Skating; Many General Notes.

The Eskey society will hold a business meeting and service of song this evening at the Clarendon hotel parlors. The revival meetings which have been held in the Norwegian-Danish Methodist church for the past week have been very successful and quite a large number of converts have been made.

A. A. Jones, aged 31, died at St. Mary's hospital yesterday afternoon of typhoid fever. He had been ill for a long time.

Mr. Burdick entertained another large audience at the Swedish Mission church last night on the subject "Money and the Liquor Traffic." This closes his work in this part of the city.

Hugh McCornick gave an exhibition of his last skating at Twentieth avenue rink last night to a large number of spectators. Tonight he will race with Fred Borgess, the champion of the West End.

Francis Long of Long & White, sent a large keg of oysters to F. H. White, and they arrived last night. Fred, with a party of friends entertained the oysters at Concomina. If anyone notices that a few of his friends are not on the street today they will know why.

Alderman Robert Kennedy is very ill with pneumonia. He has been sick since the funeral of Mr. Chas. Townner took place yesterday afternoon. Rev. C. K. Capron performed the funeral ceremonies.

THE NEW MILL.

A Description of the Scott & Holston Mill at the West End.

Permits were taken out yesterday by the Scott & Holston company for an engine house and factory on their recently acquired property known as the Graff & Murray mill site, between Twenty-second and Twenty-fifth avenues west and south side of Michigan street. The new house will be built of brick, 41x55, with a smokestack 80 feet high. The walls to be 24 feet high. This will cost $25,000, ready for the mill.

The factory will be 30x120 and will be a frame structure, three stories and will cost exclusive of the machinery $70,000. A warehouse of about the same dimensions of the factory will also be put up as soon as the plans are definitely decided on. This will probably be of brick. A railroad track will be laid between the warehouse and factory. The entire plant will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 and will be one of Duluth's most important industries. The Lake avenue shore of the company will gradually be moved to the new location.

The Lower Court.

Emil Johnson was arraigned before Judge Davies this morning on the charge of assault in the second degree. The case was dismissed, complainant paying the costs.

Martin Keating, for abusive language, was mulcted in the sum of $17 with the alternative of going to jail for twenty days. He chose the former course.

There were two drunks. John Maple, drunk, was committed. C. Paulson, on complaint of Carl Lundberg on the charge of assault, was committed to jail till the 10th inst., when he will have a hearing.

TO A FINISH.

A Big Fight Arranged Between Jack McAuliffe and Jimmy Carroll.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—Jack McAuliffe, New York, champion light weight of the world, and Jimmy Carroll, of Boston, signed articles last night for a fight at the California Athletic club, March 20, for the championship title, purse of $5,000, and side bet of $500.

Sporting Notes.

Andy Bowen of New Orleans has been matched against Charley Johnson of Minnesota. The match is set for Feb. 8, at New Orleans. Two ounce gloves will be used.

Paul Pritchard, the well-known English middleweight, who some time ago offered to fight Jack Dempsey, has issued a challenge to fight any man in the world of his weight.

After celebrating his nuptials, Slavin will come to this country and issue a challenge to fight any man in the world for $500 and the championship. He prefers to meet Sullivan.

Ed Smith, the Denver pugilist, writes to Capt. Cooke of the Police News that he will come to Boston and spar George Godfrey for the $15,000 purse offered by the Parnell club.

Mr. Burgess has just completed the plans of a new 85-foot water-line keel schooner for Mr. Trotter of New York. The new boat is intended wholly for cruising, and will be rigged with bowsprit and jib-boom. The cabin accommodations are ample, including large staterooms and a commodious cabin.

Billy Murphy of Australia, who recently defeated the Weir, is matched to fight Tommy Warren at the Occidental club, Friday, March 4, for a $100 purse and an outside bet of $100.

It is reported that Peter Jackson and his ex-boy manager, Charles E. Davies, cleared upwards of $25,000 by their visit to England.

H. G. Eck of Duluth is anxious to arrange a match with the Black Pearl or any other middleweight of this section. But Killen says he will match his brother Donny, against Eck for from $100 to $500 a side.

INCREASED COMPETITION.

Rail Managers Expect the Duluth Route to Make Trouble.

Lake and Rail Route Will Keep Fur Flying in Good Shape.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—The Western railroad expect increased competition on the lakes next season, as every lake shipyard is crowded with work and scores of vessels that will enter the grain, ore and general merchandise trade are now on the stocks and being hurried forward to completion as rapidly as possible. This lake competition is becoming a serious matter in the eyes of the railroads, as every year, so the figures show, the tons shipped on the lakes do an increased business.

This fact hurts the Western roads materially, as the tendency is to cut down rates. It does not affect the Eastern trunk lines so much, as they can get the grain, ore and merchandise at any of the Eastern lake ports, and by this means maintain their rates and get business just the same. The Canadian lines also are establishing lines of vessels, and propose to make it a serious matter possible for the American routes.

Everything is waiting upon the result of the meeting of the Western railway presidents here in April. In the meantime it is predicted that the various auxiliary organizations of the Interstate Commerce Railway association will disappear, leaving the field comparatively clear for the presidents when they come forward with their amalgamation or trust scheme.

Things are practically in abeyance now, but as the navigation season promises to open up earlier than usual, the program of the railroads will soon be known. The action of the Western & Northern yesterday in giving notice of a reduction in the tariff between here and St. Paul and Minneapolis forebodes a reduction in rates.

This is, however, peculiarly a Western fight as yet, and will, for a time at least, merely affect rates from the Northwest and the Missouri river, but the cut promises to extend further westward, and may find a response east of Chicago.

A particularly desperate fight will be made by the routes in Nebraska and Iowa to maintain the present high schedule, but it is not believed it will succeed.

The rates must come down if the grain in these states find a market, and if the railroads themselves do not take some action soon the railroad commissioners of those States will. When the commissioners get at the rates they will undoubtedly make some sweeping reduction. As the Iowa legislature is now in session it will probably take a hand at rate making in the way of amending the law governing the action of the board of railroad commissioners, and then the railroads will be compelled to do what they have heretofore refused to do upon the request of the farmers and shippers.

WELL, REALLY NOW—

The Herald's Guesses: An Immigration Document from Fort Wayne.

The Herald's splendid offer of $75 to the lucky nearest guessers of Duluth's population has brought letters from Maine to California, from Virginia to Manitoba. A general guess of 100,000 from Fort Wayne and enclosing a number of guesses says: "Enclosed find guesses of what I will make myself as to what the population of your beautiful city will be next June. I am a great admirer of Duluth and expect to make it my home in the near future. I have been, by my level best to boom it here, but the people of this slow city have not said enough to venture so far away from home to invest money. If Duluth does not have a population of 100,000 in less than five years I shall be much surprised.

"P. S. By the way, we think The Duluth Herald is a fine paper and lays over anything we have here.

Now guess again and guess as often as you can get coupons.

He's a Worker.

For ways that are dark, J. H. Baker, president of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, deserves the name. A week before election, Baker hired a couple of men to canvass the town, ostensibly to sell sewing machines. Men would get into conversation with the heads of families on the sewing machines, and soon politics were naturally drifted into, and as soon as a man's political preferences were discovered no further attempt was made to sell the machine. In this way the city was pretty thoroughly canvassed and a quantity of valuable information obtained relative to the strength of majority candidates. And this is why Baker was so sure of Davis' election before the votes were counted.

Around the World.

There was a time when a man who had circled the globe was a nine day's wonder, and if dime museum managers had traveled then, the traveled individual would have been exhibited as a "freak." Now such a voyage is so common that we have ceased to regard the world's circumference of 25,000 miles as anything large. But distance can be measured in another way—by the difficulty and expense of overcoming it. The Burlington system of railroads has 7,000 miles of track. Do you realize what a lot of rails it would take to string out 14,000 miles in a single line? How much money they would cost? How many great cities and thriving towns you would pass in traveling that distance? Buy a ticket over the finest railroad in the West, and investigate. For information more in detail, call on any of the Burlington agents, or those of connecting lines, or write to W. J. C. Kenton, Gen. Pass. Agent, C. & N. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

The Herald bindery can turn out heavy ledgers, etc., just as you want them, and do the work for you promptly.

Hateful Blood Relations.

Hateful kindred are those sprung from the parent stem—drunks. They are chills and fever, bilious remittent fever, dumbague and ague cake. These foes and only peace is blood relations, as there is no doubt that these endemic complaints are produced by contamination of the blood by the miasmata introduced by the parents. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters expels from the blood the virus with which miasmatic infection, but it does more than this, it neutralizes the atmospheric and aqueous poison and its germs before they have permanently fructified in the system, and thus effectually protects against the fierce inroads of this diabolical brotherhood. That it is not only a remedy, but also a preventive, prompt in relieving, lasting in effect, perfectly efficient. Nervousness, biliousness, dyspepsia and kidney trouble also succumb to it.

FROM DESPAIR TO JOY.

The Patient Story of a Lovely Lady, and How She Finally Secured It.

Mrs. Morton D. Harlan, residing at No. 65 West 5th Street, New York City, has passed through a most wonderful experience. Mrs. Harlan had a happy home and through her devotion to her home duties overtaxed her strength. She had depressed feelings, entire lack of energy in life, and finally a cough at night and morning which grew worse each day. Upon looking in a mirror she was growing thinner and lovelier all interest in life. This painful state of things continued for months until finally she became weak she could not attend to her duties and was confined to her bed the greater part of the day. Her husband's very dear friend Mrs. Willard called and was amazed to see her so weak and faded. Two bright, healthy girls stood upon each cheek, her lips were blue, her face pinched and her hair had become touched for her friend. At her earnest request, she used Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is a food for consumption was tried at the start, and a little effect could be seen. As the strength began to come back, her appetite, then her health, and she is now a robust, healthy woman, and a credit to her friend. It is sold universally. For Sale in Duluth by Boyce & Tolman.

ADVICE TO OARSMEN.

Ned Hanlan Tells Herald Readers His Luck and Gives Advice.

Talk of a Great Match; Lewis and Carkeek; Sporting Notes.

I can give no better advice to amateurs as to how they should train or row, than to tell my early experiences and the regimen and rules of exercise I followed to get myself into condition. In 1872 I began life as an amateur oarsman. Like all beginners I put myself into the hands of a trainer. I had an idea that training meant tearing one's insides out, with exhausting work and literal starvation, and these seemed to be my trainer's ideas; and for a long time I was foolish enough to follow his methods. After he had gotten my system into much worse trim than it was before I began to train I rebelled, and since that time I have followed my own ideas regarding training, with the result, that instead of breaking down at the end of five or six years absolutely unable to row a decent speed, I am physically as capable as I was in my early life.

After I had begun my own training my ideas regarding this important part of rowing matters underwent a complete change. Instead of starving myself and doing hard work I built up my constitution by light work and eating what my system craved in the way of more substantial foods. When I am in training I eat what I desire, excepting of course, condiments and such stuffs. The first thing to do in training is to get the blood in condition. Any physician will give you medicine that will cleanse the blood by regulating the stomach and liver. When these organs are in good condition the rest is easy. If the blood and these organs are not in condition, a man falls away, grows weaker and breaks out in boils. His constitution becomes wrecked. I rise at 6 or 6:30, walk one mile, running perhaps 200 yards at a stiff speed, sufficiently to get my wind. Then I return and take a light shower bath, after which my man rubs me down with flesh gloves, rubbing in all directions. Afterwards he goes over me with his hands, and then fuses me dry with a towel. I then rest for twenty minutes before sitting down to breakfast. I eat for this meal some fruit, a small steak, and drink one or two cups of tea. Sitting around for an hour I go for a two or three mile business walk. Then I go to my boat house and am rubbed down an exercise row. The rubbing process is gone over again after I return and then I drink a glass of Bass ale. For dinner I have roast beef or mutton, sometimes a fowl, with vegetables. I rest until 3:30, take a walk, then go for another exercise row. Once or twice a week I take a speaker over the course. One thing amateurs should bear in mind: Never leave your race on the river, that is, never row six miles a week before the day of the races comes. It stands to reason that no man can row as hard as he is able each day and be in better condition the day of the race than when he began training. More races have been lost by "leaving the race on the river" than I can name.

As to style of rowing. In 1876 I entered my first great race and won it. When I arrived at Philadelphia there were assembled all the great oarsmen of the world. I became a laughing stock for them because of my style of rowing and my rigging.

The prevailing rigging for scull there was an 8-inch sliding seat, 10-foot 3-inch oars with 5½ blade, the foot board having an angle of 20°. I went there with 3-inch sliding seat, 9½-foot oars with 6½-inch blades, and an angular foot brace at a 40° angle. I was the laughing stock of all the oarsmen.

When the race came off I won by several lengths. Since then this rigging has advanced the speed of racing a minute a mile. I then went to England, and they laughed there, but I beat them out of sight. All England then used my rigging. I met Trickett in England. He used the short slide and old fashion fittings. I won $50,000 for my friends on this race. Then I defeated Laycock in the same way. Then I went to Australia and was defeated by Beach, through a collision with a steamer. The Australian climate undermined my constitution, and I was defeated several times there, but I could never get the Australians to meet me in neutral waters.

But in the Duluth regatta I am ready to meet the world, and will try to redeem my lost laurels.

Amateurs should row, so that in taking the forward movement the armlets should be directly over the knees. Then all muscles have play. Racing now-a-days is mostly with the lower part of the body, thus taking the strain from the trunk. This has given greater speed with less muscular exertion. Amateurs should be careful not to overtrain. What will train the mind will do for another, and an amateur must regulate diet and exercise to meet his own personal requirements, and not be hindered by the advice of a professional trainer.

NED HANLAN.

O'Connor Goes Tonight.

Oarsman O'Connor is at the Palace hotel and leaves on the steamer Mariposa for Australia Saturday night, says a San Francisco dispatch. O'Connor says he will become thoroughly acclimated before he contends against anyone. He anticipates, also, some little trouble in becoming used to Australian courses, which are nearly all over tidal water, a hard thing for foreigners to become acquainted with. O'Connor has no friendly feeling for ex-champion Hanlan, and supposes Ed will commence mad throwing as soon as the Pacific ocean separates them. He will, however, give Hanlan an opportunity of meeting him on his return. Hanlan, shown the above by a Herald reporter, spoke very kindly of O'Connor and said he hoped the latter would bring back the championship from Australia. "If he does," said Hanlan, "I want to meet him at Duluth as I've told you before. O'Connor is a good oarsman and a good man."

Referring to the talk of getting on a match with Evan Lewis, Jack Carkeek says: "Lewis is doing lots of talking, but no money goes with his gab. I would like to see some of his stuff up. It is not my place to go after his game. I have defeated Lewis twice, and if he wants some more he should be the anxious man."

Sporting Notes.

The Oxford-Cambridge boat race will take place March 26.

Frank Ives is suffering from a lame arm that interferes with his billiard practice considerably.

The Pittsburg League team will wear black and white at home and gray and black abroad.

Billy Jordan is determined to add to the glory of his position as manager of ceremonies in the California club the fame of a prophet. He says John L. and Jackson will surely fight in the California club for $15,000.

Should the Brotherhood decide to make room for St. Louis, Von der Ahe will sell out. That is the St. Louis situation in a nutshell.

The Boston Parnell club has offered a purse of $100 for a fight between George Godfrey and Dominick McCaffrey.

The Baltimore club has abandoned its efforts to purchase the Washington club's franchise. Mr. Hewitt's ultimatum was $25,000, which is more than Mr. Von der Horst thinks the franchise is worth.

Tom Loftus is one of the best paid managers in the profession today. His salary with the Cincinnati club next season will be $400.

Manager Mutrie has arranged games for April with Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Williams and Manhattan colleges, Cuban Gladiators, New Haven, Rochester and other strong clubs. Prices will be offered for the club making the best stand against the Giants.

At the March meeting of the Players' league a proposition to establish a reserve team will be introduced and discussed. If the idea is accepted a group of twelve or fifteen players will be maintained at a central point by the league, and be subject to a draft by any of the teams in the championship fight should one of their players be disabled. A few promising youngsters may be added to the group. The idea is a novel one and worthy of a good deal of consideration.

No Date for Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—No date has yet been set for the final adjournment of the Pan-American congress, and according to present indications its labors will continue until the end of March. The committee on international law and extradition have made but little progress, and the committee on railroads is deep in the consideration of a report submitted by Delegate Quintana of the Argentine Republic. It has been ascertained that a large proportion of the members are opposed to a Gallatin.

In Honor of Gen. Sherman.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—The members of the local division of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee, together with representatives of the army organizations in the city, will celebrate Gen. Sherman's birthday by a banquet at the Sherman house tonight. The company will sit down at the same hour as the guests of the general in New York, and telegrams of congratulation will be exchanged.

Home Rule vs. Liberal Measures.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues are holding an important conference today preparatory to the opening of parliament next week. The most important question to be determined is whether home rule shall continue to occupy an exclusive position in the forefront of the Gladstonian party, or whether general liberal measures shall have precedence. The rate of movement is opposed to pushing the Irish question with too much vigor at this time and a memorial to that effect, bearing several thousand signatures was presented to the conference this afternoon.

MARCHES TO THE SEA

Gen. Sherman Marches on Toward the Unfathomable Sea

From Whence There is No Return; In His Fourth Score Year.

New York, Feb. 8.—Many of the pedestrians on Seventy-first street, west of Eighth avenue, stopped this morning in front of one of the elegant residences on that thoroughfare long enough to doff their hats to the tall, erect figure of an elderly man who sat at the library window, and to receive a military salute in return. The object of these attentions was the last survivor of the great general of the war, William Tecumseh Sherman, and who this morning reached his 70th year.

Scores of congratulations by wire and mail have been delivered to the veteran ex-warrior this morning, and the thoughtful offerings of his friends have transferred his library into a floral bower. It was the idea of a public reception was the event with a grand banquet and reception at the Union League club to be participated in by President Harrison, the members of the cabinet and some 500 distinguished men and women.

Subsequently it was learned, however, that the old soldier preferred to celebrate his birthday under his own camp fire, and the idea of a public reception was therefore abandoned. But around the table in the Seventy-first street mansion there will gather tonight the members of the general's immediate family. General John Sherman, his brother, Gen. Sherman, who commanded the right wing of Sherman's army in the great march from Atlanta to the sea; Maj. Gen. John M. Schofield, now the chief general of the American armies; Gen. Howard, and a few others of the men who fought under his leadership, and who, with glasses filled to the brim, will toast their venerable host and wish him many more years of life and contentment.

Gen. Sherman wears his 70 years well, and although not as vigorous as he appeared a few years ago, he is still a sturdy old man who seems likely to live to celebrate a good many more birthdays. He can make as good an after-dinner speech as he could a quarter of a century ago, and ranks with Chauncey Depew and Gen. Horace Porter as a raconteur and man about town.

THE FOLLIES OF FOOLS.

The Wiles of Women and the Fads of Witless Men.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Equestriennes about have become a common sight in New York city, and they are to be seen in their variations of the conventional horseback costume, walking to and from the stables around Central Park. They look like those horsemanship which old-fashioned novelists and dramatists used to put into their romances, and who were ever being saved from deadly perils by the opportune heroes. But these

New York misdeeds of the saddle are more utilitarian. One of them was on a fractions horse, and the best pranced, shied, reared, plunged and seemed determined to throw her off. She kept her seat in a most determined manner. At length the beast gave unmistakable evidence that he was going to lie down and roll over.

"Help, help!" the girl cried, showing for the first time any fright. It was no pale and poetic young man who responded, but a burly park policeman, who said as he seized the now squatted horse by the rein—"Get off, miss. Why don't you get off?"

Well, my friend, did you ever hear of a hen party? It's precisely the same affair, only doves are not so common as hens. What woman likes to be called a hen and who would object to be named a dove? What do the little doves do these parties? Something besides cooing, you may depend. They may coo and gurgle and smooth their plumage for a few minutes, but then they get right down to hunting worms. In other words, they seat themselves at a green, baize-covered table, on which are stacked symmetrical piles of red, white and blue bits of ivory. See? In plain English, the doves play poker and at a rattling pace, too. Listen, now, Puritan grandmothers and mothers in Israel, to the inequity of this proceeding. The doves, going on the principal of "let the day, better the deed," take Sunday evenings for these entertainments. It was but a week or two since that I heard a handsomely-dressed woman at a Sunday afternoon whisper to her friend: "Come, let's go. We'll be late. We're due at that dove party, you know."

It is news from the eating resorts of upper Broadway to tell that one of the most strictly beautiful girls in New York is one who is now seen among the more impecunious youths who are there from midnight till nearly daybreak. She is a tall, nobly-planned young woman, with a face that would set a poet dreaming, so remarkably radiant, regal and expressive it is. No fault can be found with her attire. It is rich and extremely stylish without being vulgar. A reasonable collection of diamonds glitter on her snowy hands, and she has the air of a well-cared-for and contented young lady. The wonder is that she passes so much of her time in such unimportant company, and in restaurants that are commonplace. One night a stranger, to whom the beauty had been pointed out, expressed surprise that she should be content to stay in all such places, as is her practice, in a public eating place, with a brood of youngsters who must certainly be too lightly supplied with money to make them worth her consideration. She might easily go forth and conquer men of means if she chose, for everyone is instantly struck upon seeing her by her truly marvelous physical splendor. This girl of 20 had fallen in love and the whole world besides her affinity—everything, including the oysters, birds, wine and dudes that she took care of at regular evening symposiums—was nothing to her. On hearing this it was natural to suppose that the man whom she had married was, without doubt, a dashing, handsome, refined fellow. But very early one morning the beloved one appeared to take the beauty away from her oyster-shells and her circle of worshipping companions. He was 50 years old, corpulent, had a huge, sandy mustache, a snub nose, pig eyes, and his head was as bald as a door-knob. A more generally repulsive individual could not well be found in New York.

"So that is the object of the divine creature's regard?" asked someone. "That is the lucky man," was the reply.

"And who may he be?"

The answer was clear and cold. "He is the dealer of a faro bank. Doesn't get away from his table till after 3 o'clock every morning. She waits for him here."

Not One in Ten

Of the people you meet from day to day has perfectly pure, healthy blood. The hereditary scrofulous taint afflicts the large majority of people, while many others acquire diseases from impure air, improper food and wrong indulgences. Hence the imperative necessity for a reliable blood purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which eradicates every impurity, and gives to the blood vitality and health. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, humors, boils, pimples, and all other affections caused by impurities or poisonous germs in the blood. All that is asked for Hood's Sarsaparilla is that it be given a fair trial.

NEW FASHIONS IN PARIS.

A Bridal Dress of an Ultra Parisian; Some Wedding Presents;

Redfern's New Gowns Pictured for Herald Feminine Readers.

Many Seasonable Hints From Many Sources for the Ladies.

New York Herald, London edition: "Will not madame allow a court train of silver brocade to be fastened to Watteau to this plain wedding dress of her daughter? It will accord so much better with the grand tressure and wedding." The answer was "No," the robe must be a simple robe de marie, and must not be over-trimmed." The conversation took place in one of the largest dressmaking establishments in Paris and was apropos of a fashionable wedding. The wedding dress in consequence was the simplest robe in all the handsome outfit, and above the French idea of propriety in the matter. The young girl is not allowed to wear jewels of any kind and too rich a veil of lace is not in good form. With the robe was worn a simple full veil of plain tulle, enveloping the bride in a shimmering cloud.

The tulle is often edged with fine lace, or embroidered with pearls on the bottom to enrich it. Lace veils need not be worn over the face unless desired. The use of white ostrich feathers is an innovation when combined with the conventional orange blossoms. The bridesmaids wear pretty toilettes of any color which may make the scene gay, and they usually wear hats of picturesque shape, and may carry bouquets. The bride usually carries in her hand her usual or prayer book. English church weddings are more showy than the religious ceremony in Paris; perhaps all the effort is crowded into the one celebration, and they are often very pretty and effective. There are more flowers and pages and little sisters in green-away costumes, as well as numerous bridesmaids and attendants. In Paris the wedding ceremony is comparatively simple, and has a great deal of quiet elegance. One of the prettiest features is the "quatre," where the two maids of honor collect alone while the choir and special singers render beautiful music.

The general giving of wedding presents and their exhibition to friends is something new in Paris, but it has been generally imitated this season. For wedding presents one may give almost anything one fancies. From one not intimate the gift is usually something without practical use, handsome, attractive and costly.

Fans are always numerous among bridal presents, as there can never be too many of them. The painting may be so different, and the mounting so enriched, that there is always a variety to change the monotony.

Silver articles are always in good form for wedding gifts, and are in a thousand designs. Forks and knives, silver-mounted toilette bottles, all the little belongings of a writing table, candles for tapers, trays for pens, paper cutters and weights, small silver vases for flowers, and so on through a long list.

"Combinations" knives and conveniences of all kinds are the novelties of the season. Small silver knives open with a blade on one side and a match box on the other. Surprises are the order of the day; nearly everything opens in some unexpected place, disclosing one more convenience. A pocket flask for foxhunters has a secret hollow on either side of the central flask, in which are snugly stowed away two excellent cigars.

Silver flasks are always suitable gifts for gentlemen, and this year they are produced in new designs beautifully carved, or of rock crystal mounted with silver, or of stained carved ivory. Rock crystal is one of the most elegant materials. It is not always genuine rock crystal, as a crystal glass is now made, which is an excellent substitute. Ink bottles, large paper-cutters, and perfume bottles are made of this glass, as well as handsome table ornaments.

Photograph frames are made in carved silver, as well as leather mounted in silver.

A large shop, which has the newest things in stationery, displays a pink paper covered with a fine white cobweb which starts from the center. A light green paper stamped with curious arabesque in white and pale mauve with white primroses scattered over it, are other novelties of the season. One may obtain a bright scarlet letter paper if one desires to be very original in stationery, and may write on it with either white or black ink. A well-known French paper with a rose-colored paper and across the corner of the sheet as well as on the fly of the envelope is stamped the face simile in good black of its full name. As it is a very famous name, one does not object to receiving correspondence so publicly marked, but it might have its drawbacks if all papers were marked so plainly. Monograms appear to be smaller, and tiny letters are much used, not interlarded in a monogram so much as written in a fanciful way connected together, and may be stamped in gold, silver, copper or colors.

The new copperware has been previously mentioned, but new designs are constantly appearing. The smoker's set of cigar and cigarette box, with the match holder and little light holder in the form of a tiny kettle, with the lighted wick in the spot, is one of the new designs. The copper is the real metal, of a deep red and varnished or enameled by a new process. The handles of the tea kettles are very handsome, being artistically treated. Has been introduced the Russian opera glass, which is often made of aluminum, and is so light as to seem to weigh nothing; the price is lower than the ordinary opera glass of pearl or leather.

With the glasses are the little bags in which to carry and preserve them, made of suede leather, embroidered in silver, or of bits of old silk of antique design. Of ancient silk are made an infinite variety of silk ornaments. Screens covered with silk of old design, with the frame work covered with velvet, are very popular. A fine screen of this style was made in form of an old tavern sign. It was cut shield shape and the old silk so arranged as to carry out the idea of the tavern sign. It was hung to a post covered with old Genoa velvet and Louis XIV. silk with some hinges and could be swung back and forth as required.

The poverty of today in boudoir boxes covered with artificial flowers. Also the jule log reproduced in papier maché, and covered with holly, and holding in its sixteen inch length a good supply of bonbons for the children. The prettiest box which appeared last week is a box of wood, burning in the center with a gleaming fire of tinsel, in which are comfortably resting a handful of real chestnuts. The illusion is quite complete. Many of the nicest are dainty things in silk and plush bags.

SOME REDFERN GARMENTS.

Illustrations for The Herald of Some Newly-Designed Dresses.

The Herald has made arrangements with Redfern, the foremost ladies' tailor of New York, or of the world, whereby it can give its feminine readers, and who of its male readers as well will not be interested in looking at pretty designs, a series of the newest garments for spring and summer wear. These will serve a good purpose with the ladies of Duluth.

A very handsome gown as the one that is seen in the sketch is made in a "Caldon" blue cloth. The bodice is loose-fitted and lined with a soft and graceful French drapery coming down and finishing on the side of the skirt.

"Redfern's" embroidery, known throughout the world for its exquisite hand-work, forms the "petal" design that adds such beauty. The outline is in cold applique over cream cloth and it forms, as the illustration shows, the characteristic and notable feature of the hand-work.

On one side of the panel is an edging of ostrich trimming in the same soft shade of blue.

This gown is most artistically draped throughout and is entirely novel in its design. To complete the tout ensemble is a dainty hat of cloth and velvet embroidered to correspond.

A UNIQUE COSTUME.

A beautiful Gray Broadcloth for Light Spring and Summer Wear.

The elegant gown that is illustrated in the cut herewith, has been designed by "Redfern" for the coming season. It is composed of a rich and elegant fabric, and is artistically draped throughout, and is entirely novel in its design. To complete the tout ensemble is a dainty hat of cloth and velvet embroidered to correspond.

A smart toque hat to correspond gives it a decidedly unique finish, and the entire appearance is novel and refreshing to the eye not often met with in the new designs.

A REDFERN COAT.

A Pretty and Chic Walking Coat and Hat.

That pictured below is a very smart coat, loose fitting, fastened to the shoulders. It is made in a fawn-colored French cloth, with large and full brown velvet sleeves and has an elegant design of braiding in gold and silver and mixed colors.

every one of the twenty-five had drawn an animal the cards were exchanged and the correct name for each sketch was read aloud, and each person checked off those which had been named correctly. The lady or gentleman who guessed correctly the greatest number of pictures was awarded the first prize, while the one who had the fewest got a "booby." There were roars of laughter as each attempt was made to depict some animal known only to the artist, in many cases no semblance to a living person being discernible.

THE CALLER'S MISTAKE.

But his Apology was Ample Sufficient for the Offense.

New York Sun: Joe Blackburn has just been re-elected to the United States senate. While he was out in the state visiting the legislators he arrived one evening at a small village with only one hotel. It was a railroad town and most of the rooms in the hotel were occupied by railroad men. There was only one vacant apartment, and that was to be occupied by an engineer who might come at any time. The senator was tired and sleepy and he would occupy the room and take the chances.

Some time in the night, the senator was awakened by the ringing of a bright lantern into his face. Somebody seized him by the shoulders, gave him a tremendous shake, and a coarse, gruff voice exclaimed:

"Get up, Lanky, you've got to go out on No. 3. Skippy's already gone on No. 7, and the order is for you to follow. Skippy's going to make the power for you and Skippy Jim is going to do the figurin' in the back end."

As such language was strange to the senator, he concluded it must be a nightmare, turned over, and was dropping off to sleep again when he was shaken two or three times, dragged out of bed and dropped on the floor.

"No you don't!" exclaimed the intruder; "that won't wash, Lanky. I'm not going to lose my job for you. If I leave you here you'll go back to bed, thinking you'll only snooze a minute, and of course you'll get left. Then they'll fire me for not calling you. No, there ain't no use to huck. Put on your clothes and come along."

"What in—do you suppose I know or care about No. 9?" exclaimed the senator.

"What are ye givin' me?" answered the intruder. "I've had 'em tell me that before when they were sleepy and didn't want to go."

Then the night watchman, for it was he, and he had taken a pleasant nap for the engineer, whom he was to awake, thrust the lantern into Mr. Blackburn's face. He recognized his mistake and knew the senator, and was for a moment agast. He quickly recovered himself and said:

"The only apology I have to offer is this."

As he spoke he pulled out a small pocket flask and handed it to the senator. The latter took a draught, smiled affably, said the apology was sufficient, and went back to slumber.

By Lillian E. Childs.

All through the long, weary hours of the night, the golden light of dawn was just beginning to show itself.

The selection of a day that day, the senator's look out in mute surprise, and of course you'll get left. Then they'll fire me for not calling you. No, there ain't no use to huck. Put on your clothes and come along."

Of plain land, where home and loved ones Bright lights flash in the dusk with kindly Lies beyond fires of peace that naught can And in the slumberous hush of night's ad- All sounds are dead, and clearer goals each star.

WINTER JOYS.

The poet's joy. Oh, talk not of the poet's joy. The rapture is his and his is expressed: His trust in bliss is when he finds A quarter in a cold, dark sky.

Death and a New York Doctor. A doctor more known by his failures than cures. Met Death in his rambles one day, And the latter said, "Doctor, what misadventure has brought you here?"

"You say from your home, now, I pray?" "A patient's condition," the doctor replied, "is such that he may not pull through."

"Oh yes, he will do," the doctor answered, "These wires give me all I can do."

Played Out. The man who knows enough to take The best umbrella he can find Is a poor excuse to make By saying he is color blind.

Paradise. When the banks grab the hayseed And works him for his tin, The tin which has been put out Because he's taken in.

Easy Enough. Mary had a stocking once, And it was made of wool, And on that merry Christmas morn The stocking it was sold.

How came that stocking to be full? Because at Christmas dawn When Mary was dressing herself She pulled that stocking on.

Misfortune. Alas! I nothing find but chaff Where I once found a treasure; To know the reason why folks laugh Often prove and wisdom.

Around the World. There was a time when a man who had circled the globe was a nine day's wonder, and if dime museum managers had existed then, the traveling individual would have been exhibited as a "freak."

Now such a voyage is so common that we have ceased to regard the world's circumference of 25,000 miles as anything large. But distance can be measured in another way—by the difficulty and expense of overcoming it. The Burlington system of railroads has 7,000 miles of track. Do you realize what a lot of rails it would take to string out 14,000 miles in a single line? How much money they would cost? How many great cities and thriving towns you pass in traveling that distance? Buy a ticket over the finest railroad in the West, and investigate. For information more in detail, call on any of the Burlington agents, or those of connecting lines, or write to W. J. C. Kendall, Gen. Pass. Agent, C. & N. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

The Herald bindery now turn out heavy ledgers, etc., just as you want them, and do the work for you promptly.

A Few Pointers.

Persons who have a cold are much more likely to take the influenza or so called grippe.

It is much more severe when accompanied by a cold.

The most critical time is when recovering from the disease, as slight exposure will often cause a relapse, and that is almost certain to be fatal.

The feet should be kept dry and warm, the body well clothed and care used to avoid ex-posure.

The bowels should be kept regular, and per-sonal hygiene should take quite time to keep up the vitality.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a prompt re-medy for a severe cold and this disease requires a severe cold and this disease requires a severe cold and this disease requires a severe cold.

THE LAST SOCIAL WEEK.

More Life in Duluth Social Circles Than Heretofore Noted.

Boat Club Reception; Personal Affairs; Coming Events.

West End Social; Theatrical Notes; Musicale at the Bethel.

The grip has gone so there is an opportunity to attend to other matters. The sneeze is displaced by the dance and the handkerchief by the fan. Several events in society are looked for next week and the week after and the close of the spring season promises to be fairly animated.

The Duluth Boat club's reception and dance takes place at the Spaulding a week from next Tuesday and will be a brilliant affair. The invitations will be issued early next week. The following are the principal committee members: Arrangements—L. J. Hopkins, George A. French, A. W. Finley, S. Morgan and H. D. Pearson. Floor management—C. H. Eldridge, C. J. Kenshaw, O. Hartman, H. P. Chandler and H. F. Totman. A fine dancing program has been arranged and the music has been specially rehearsed for the occasion. The boat club is always noted for the excellence of its parties, and now the club expects to outdo itself.

The Young Men's club gave one of the most enjoyable dances of the series at Ingalls hall last night. Honors orchestra furnished the music. Among those in attendance the reporter recognized the following: Gentlemen—Messrs. Speed, Barker, Ginder, Bowler, Ziegler, Brown, Laux, Sievert, Sherwood, Parker, Whittington, Henry, Stroutman, Whitmore, Sharkey, Butchart, Mall, Ralston, Cronbie, Lint, Harper, Jennings, Farrington, Ladies—Misses Stewart, Henry, Shick, Patterson, R. Patterson, Child, Jones, Krelwitz, Bowen, Mallman, Emerson, Pray, Coleman, Gilbert, Ralston, Butchart, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Sealy, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Brown.

The Duluth Turnverein is contemplating putting on the 1-wards German play, entitled, "The Three Universities." In this play will be depicted the attempts of three musical societies to organize concerts and coming into conflict with each other's plans. They raise pandemonium generally, and the thing ends up with a grand smashup. A masquerade will be given by the members of the Turnverein next Tuesday evening.

The Ladies Aid society of St. Paul's church holds a reception at the rectory on Thursday evening next, between the hours of 8 and 11 o'clock. These church receptions have always proved most pleasant.

The annual ball of the Duluth fire department will be held at Ingalls hall Monday evening, Feb. 17. Supper will be served at Thurston's. This will be the liveliest and pleasantest ball the department has ever given, if the intentions of the committees are to be relied on.

A very large reception and party is to be given by Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Miller at their residence on Second street and Second avenue east Wednesday evening.

The Unitarian society had a very pleasant informal social at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. Bailey Wednesday evening.

Refreshments were served and the evening occupied with dancing, music and card playing.

Mrs. Judge Hale entertained a large number of ladies Thursday afternoon at a dinner party.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Markell gave a small reception last evening in honor of Senator and Mrs. Whitman.

The classes of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium are making preparations for an athletic exhibition soon. About forty will take part.

The Y. W. C. T. U. will hold its regular business meeting followed by a social next Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Hugo, 122 East Third street.

Weddings and Such.

Austin Torreyberry, the architect, was married this week to Miss Fattie Hooper, of St. Thomas, Ont. The wedding took place there. They will return to Duluth in a few days.

The engagement is announced of Mr. W. W. Sanford and Miss Hall, sister of Mrs. C. H. Clague, both of this city. The marriage will take place in Hudson, Wis. Miss Hall's old home, in a short time, their very many friends will extend hearty congratulations.

Cards are issued for the wedding of Mr. Albert E. Quinn, editor of The Cloquet Pine Knot-Vindicator to Miss Nettie J. Pearce of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Pearce. Miss Pearce has a great many friends in Duluth. Mr. Quinn is also well known here. The wedding takes place Tuesday evening at the First Methodist church here and Mrs. Quinn will be at home at Claret at about Feb. 15.

Many of the friends of Mrs. Helen M. Sablin of Third avenue east, will perhaps be surprised to learn of her intended wedding, that is to occur Tuesday evening next. Mr. Laiken, West Union, Iowa, is the groom and the wedding will take place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. It will be private, only a dozen or more of the most intimate friends being invited and the ceremony will be performed by Rev. E. M. Noyes. Mr. and Mrs. Laiken will take a bridal trip to southern California.

Mrs. Sablin has been a resident of Duluth several years and has won many friends. She has taught music, being herself an expert in both vocal and piano practice. The wedding is the culmination of a very pretty romance.

HIS FIRST EFFORT.

The Earliest Poem Ever Written by Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

Notes of Literary Matters; The February Magazine Report.

The first poems of our great poets and the gems of verse that have come from the pens of unknown authors would make an interesting volume. I sat in the room of a friend the other evening, and in looking over a number of newspaper clippings and manuscripts we first across Thomas Bailey Aldrich's first poem, and one upon which he spent many a weary hour.

It is the only poem that he left out of his first published volume, "Baby Bell," issued in 1850, although many of his friends begged him to publish it. The sentiment is sweet, but the rhythm shows somewhat of the crude composition of a budding poet, who has since won fame. Mr. Aldrich was a youth when this was written, but in three years after his first poem was published he had taken a prominent place among American poets. The poet now lives in Boston, and his writings are read and loved by all.

THE RHYME OF JENNY EAGLEHEART.

BY T. B. ALDRICH.

"'Tis better to have loved and lost,
Than never to have loved at all."
—TENNYSON.

O dainty Jenny Eagleheart,
I know not where you be,
Upon the Scottish highlands,
Or on the Indian sea;
But I'll make a bonny song of you
Wherever you may be!

And when your English lover,
Across the stormy main,
Shall bring you to these pleasant skies
And tell you how he loved you,
You'll find the song I've made for you,
And my heart will be the same.

O dainty Jenny Eagleheart,
I know when you were born,
God bless the hour that saw you,
And bent the yellow corn,
That summer night, but how can I break
For the world that more!

For in the rain and in the wind
A little bird from Paradise,
With love beneath its wing,
O, in the wind and in the rain
A little bird did sing—
A little blossom of a girl,
Some spirit up above,
Let drop by chance into the world—
A bonny "Pipped" love,
To teach us how the angels speak,
And how the angels move!

At first those tiny baby hands,
Rose-colored, like sea-shells,
Open and shut the violets
To rob them of their smiles;
Or shake the tresses from out
The lilies' spangled bells!

But by-and-by you grew so tall,
A holy thing to see,
Just peeped above the rose-bush
That in the garden grew;
And then the early holly-hocks
Were not as tall as you!

And how you grew! Ah, Heaven! it was
A holy thing to see,
Such goodness growing on the earth,
Where else and sorrow be
An angel in the end—in faith,
Half-shown divinity!

And while you ran from grade to grade
Of perfection, so, so perfect,
Beyond the sea, to perilous lands,

By Arab mosques and tent,
But the thought of Jenny Eagleheart
Went with me where I went!

O, often in the breathless night,
Beneath those Orient skies,
I thought of you, I dreamed of you,
And with a thousand sighs,
I'd feel you for your bonny mouth
And for your gentle eyes!

Time fled, and I had rold enough
To live on many a year,
I yearned to see my native land
And all my heart held dear,
And to live the dream that I had dreamed
For many and many a year.

Again I saw those chalky cliffs
Rise from the purple sea;
We swept across the harbor bar
And on right gallantly
We passed the lighthouse and the fort,
And the kirk upon the loch.

O, how the blood leaped in my veins,
And how my heart did beat,
The woodlands that we rambled through
To your garden gate, my sweet!
How the roses started in the sunburnt sun
Strode through the village street.

Ab, dainty Jenny Eagleheart,
I found you grew as I live!
A deeper crimson touched your mouth,
And the silver curls you wore in,
But I dared not kiss you, Jenny, dear,
You'd such a quickly air!

When I left you for the far-off lands,
You were but a child, you know;
A woman now—so changed, so changed,
I'd love you less! Ah, no!
But I dared not hold you on my knee
As I used to, long ago!

O tell me, Jenny Eagleheart,
If you remember still,
The woodlands that we rambled through
And the tumble down old mill,
And the quail's frozen dew,
At the foot of Strathmill hill!

I've seen the sunken cities
That lie across the sea,
Herculaneum and Pompeii,
And the mighty rivers that lie,
But the ruined mill on Strathmill hill
Is a sweeter thought to me!

Well, let it go. I sat and told
The sigs that I had seen,
Have let this bitter love old man:
Long be it memory given,
The dim seraglio of the East
And the tomb of Egypt's queen.

And then I showed you the trinkets
That I had brought for you;
The silver brooch and the ring,
And the opal's frozen dew,
And the necklace that would match so wise
With a pair of eyes I knew.

Then your father—holding them
Above your blessed head,
"You shall not bear these Jenny dear,
Until the day you wed."
The earl will thank you for this!"
"The earl! the earl!" I said.

O God! that broke the dream I dreamed
For many and many a year,
I loved you, Jenny Eagleheart;
My soul was not so dear.

As the little gate curving
That glimmered in your ear,
I love you, Jenny Eagleheart!
God pardon me if I
Have let this bitter love come in Between me and the sky;

But I love you, Jenny Eagleheart,
With a love that cannot die!

And when, upon that more in May,
I heard your marriage bell,
I thought that an angel, up in the clouds,
Was singing to me in faith,
"Twas a chimera for the earl and a toll for me,
That the scoton rung so well!"

O never, never any more
Shall I hold you to my breast;
You came and, and my soul draws near
To the mansions of the blest,
And the wicked cease from troubling
And the weary are at rest.

When the heavy vines in summer
Bore my grave shall curl,
Will you stand there once, just once, Jenny,
And say to your noble earl:
"Here lies the thoughtless true boy
Who loved me when a girl!"

God bless you, Jenny Eagleheart,
God bless the man who won
The whitest hand, the truest heart,
There is beneath the sky,
The rhyme of Jenny Eagleheart:
God love us every one.

The Magazine.

The Illustrated American will be a high-class illustrated weekly newspaper of twenty-four quarto pages of the size of The London Graphic, to be published simultaneously at the company's offices, Bible House, New York, and 142 Dearborn street, Chicago, the first issue appearing on Feb. 1, 1890. Every number will contain a colored supplement, drawn, engraved and printed by the best artists in their various lines, aided by the best mechanical effects known to science. No expense will be spared to make this supplement unique in its way, fit for framing and hanging up in the most artistic boudoir. A yearly subscription will therefore place a gallery of fifty-two pictures. In addition there will be a profusion of illustrations done on wood. The publication is under the general management of Mr. Maurice M. Minton, formerly of The New York Herald. Mr.

C. de Grimm, the well-known artist and illustrator, is director of the art department. Mr. William S. Walsh, late of Lippincott's Magazine, has charge of the editorial department.

Volume VII of the "Bankside Shakespeare," which Brentano's are now delivering to subscribers— is the "Tues-Andronicus." This play is usually slurred over with little comment, as of comparatively slight importance; but the

"Bankside" introduction treats the play and the very curious questions concerning its origin and stage reception, at considerable length. Indeed, this play may be said never to have been treated so fully before.

The 126 pages of The North American

Review for February are filled with an ample variety of interesting, timely and readable matter. The great discussion on "Free Trade and Protection," which has attracted such marked attention, is continued by Roger Q. Mills, who replies to Mr. Blaine's eloquent defense of the policy of protection; and it is promised that in the next number Senator Morrill will take up the discussion of the question.

By the article in the February "Atlantic"

by President Walker of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, on "Mr.

Bellamy and the New Nationalist Movement," has created a great stir. It is undoubtedly the severest criticism that

Mr. Bellamy's scheme has received. It is interesting to note the fact, just here that the 300th thousand of "Looking Backward" is announced.

The brother of President Harrison's private secretary, Mr. A. J. Halford, has written for the March number of the Philadelphia Ladies' Home

Journal an article on "Mrs. Harison's Daily Life in the White House," prepared with the consent and assistance of Mrs. Harrison. A new portrait of the lady of the White House, especially taken for this article, and a view of the upstairs family rooms of the executive mansion, are among the illustrations which will accompany Mr. Halford's first magazine effort.

Hateful Blood Relations.

Hateful kindred are those sprung from the parent stem—malaria. They are chills and fever, bilious remittent fever, dumb ague and ague cake. These foes to bodily peace are all blood relations, as there is no doubt that these endemic complaints are produced by contamination of the blood by the miasma existent in both air and water in malarious regions. Houdet's Stomach Bitter expels from the blood the virus with

THE BIGGEST OF LATE MOVES.

Details of the Plans of the Northern Pacific and Others for Great Development to be Made at Once at and Near Old Fond du Lac.

The Land Deals are all Completed by the Water Power Company as Far as Cloquet Village; Surveyors on the New Line.

Three Parties of Engineers now in the Field and Hard at Work; Asking Authority for a Bridge at the Rapids; The First Dam.

There have been for many months rumors of extensive developments in connection with the St. Louis river water power. Ever since Messrs. Butler and Houtz of the Water Power company were here last summer and made many mysterious trips to the dunes of the St. Louis, ever since the purchase of valuable acreage west of West Duluth by Dr. Webb and the Vanderbilts, people have felt that something was on foot for early development.

The Herald is pleased to be able to announce today the facts in the case, concerning which it has been under a pledge of secrecy for some time.

It will be remembered that some time ago it was announced that the Northern Pacific had secured additional track rights between the city proper and Fond du Lac and the property was made in this paper that a bridge across the St. Louis river was the next probable step. At that very time surveyors were in the field running mysterious lines across the river above and below Fond du Lac and across to the Wisconsin division main line of the road four or five miles southeast of the river. At that very time the company's abstractors were busy looking up titles and its purchasing agents were negotiating for land for right-of-way and other purposes, purposes that cannot now be detailed.

At that time, too, the St. Louis River Water Power company, of which Messrs. Jay Cooke, Butler and Houtz are leading owners, had its corps of engineers in the field, and had had then there several weeks, running various lines on both sides the river and back some distance into the country. Then the company was negotiating for and quietly buying what added land it wanted along the river front between Fond du Lac and the head of the upper rapids at Cloquet. Now this land has been bought (the last deeds were signed a few days ago), and the Water Power company owns today every strip of available river frontage that it needs except one little acre tract on the south side the river in the northeast 1/4 of section 15, town 48-10, owned, in part at least, by W. P. Strickland. The railroad company has also secured what it needed in the way of lands, and the cat is out of the bag.

There are today three corps of surveyors in the field at work close to Fond du Lac. One of them is for the Northern Pacific road, traveling about among the creeks and highlands south of the river and near Carlton; another is located along the river for the Water Power company, and the third is also for the Water Power people or the expected purchasers. Surveys for the Northern Pacific railroad have decided the company to build across the river above Fond du Lac, as the conditions there seem most favorable both for building and bridging. The line will strike across the river and run southwest through sections 6 and 7, town 48-15, and through 13, 23 and 27, town 48-16, to a junction with the main eastern line, at or close to Carlton, which is near the center of section 27. The route is easy, and the line will be a quick one to build. It is expected that a bill to allow the construction of a bridge at that point will be presented in congress soon, and that work on the line will be completed this summer. It is this bridge that The Herald's contemporaries have blunderingly stumbled onto and called a "joint effort of the Eastern, Duluth & Winnipeg and Northern Pacific across the lower bay." The bridge may take longer to get into shape than one season, but the bill for its authorization may be presented this week. The advantages to the Northern Pacific of such a cut off, setting to one side any speculative or ulterior motives, are very plain. A glance at the map will show that such a line will shorten, as The Herald stated in its prophecy regarding the bridge two months ago, the hauling of freight from the West to West Duluth or even the West End of the city proper, from ten to fourteen miles. It would avoid the tedious passage through West Superior of all freight, both ways, and would make a large saving in distance on westbound freight also. But these manifest reasons are not the only ones now governing the action of the railroad.

As was stated above, the Water Power company has obtained practically all land it wants. It is finally ready to begin work. Anyone who has seen the maps and prospectus of the company can realize how extensive that work is intended to be, and how thorough has been the preparation of past years in getting ready for the culmination of the work, when everything should at last be ready. But it is by no means certain that the St. Louis she would still have a third interest in the property, unless she has made some other disposition of that interest since the date of the deed referred to above.

REAL ESTATE ALIVE.

A Very Considerable Activity in Realty the Past Week.

Especially in Acreage up Near Fond du Lac Also; Notes.

A Reorganization of the Transit Company; New Boats.

There has been a great increase in activity in Duluth real estate the past week, and especially in acreage. Inside property has been quiet but very steady and has advanced not a little in price. At West Duluth there is a slight lull, though business is better now than it was a month ago. People are generally, however, waiting for the settlement of negotiations in reference to the several large manufacturing plants that are now expected to locate here, some of which have been mentioned in public and some of which are as yet kept very quiet. It is also expected that the Duluth & Winnipeg road will put in its ore and coal docks, its yards and terminals and its shops at West Duluth. For this, too, people are waiting.

But the cause of the activity in 51-14, of which the first announcement was made in The Herald Saturday, is the motor improvement, and the projected building from town to the vicinity of Rice lake. By this company has already been bought between 6000 and 7000 acres of land in the center and south part of the township, most of which has been purchased through K. M. Hunter and J. D. Howard. A glance at the transfers filed the past week will show many such transfers and all at reasonable prices, but land out that way now is not at reasonable prices, for it has gone up considerably in the past few days.

In the mean time attention has not been entirely diverted from inside property, and the rise in acreage both East, West, and North of the city can not fail to have its effect on residence property in town. The Herald has frequently stated that the cheapest property—all things considered—was that in the center of Duluth, and it sees no reason to change its view. The property is very property on the hill and east, that is only half to three-fourths of a mile from the business district, and is cheap and far below what such land sells in other cities of less population and less promise.

The transfers for the week have exceeded $220,000, and have averaged $71,210 per day, the largest being that of A. Harrington to Dr. Seward Webb and the Vanderbilts for $145,000. They have been as follows:

	No.	Total value.
Tuesday	12	$4,500
Wednesday	14	39,000
Thursday	11	172,250
Friday	11	172,250
Saturday	11	41,000
Monday	11	41,000
Total	72	$220,000

This has been the largest total of any week since the Highway Improvement company were filed, and evidences a good deal of life.

A still hunt has been that of the Northern Pacific railroad and the St. Louis Water Power company, mentioned elsewhere in this paper today. It will doubtless have a very stimulating effect on acreage all along the St. Louis river from West Duluth to Thonabesson, and will value the Fond du Lac not a little. The general situation is good, money is not so tight, business is in good shape, and all lines of trade and manufacturing are in a condition where the Duluthian cannot but hope for great things.

IS CHANGED.

A Reorganization of the Lake Superior Transit Company; Higher Yards.

The Lake Superior Transit company is going through a reorganization, and another season will see the company equipped with some of the best passenger and fast freight boats plying the great lakes. The scheme is not yet fully developed, but four great Eastern rail way companies are interested, and the plans will be brought to consummation.

At New York last Wednesday a meeting of the Lake Superior Transit company was held. The conference was attended by H. J. Hayden and N. Guilford, representing the New York Central road, J. D. Pelton, of the Erie company, J. D. Lang, of the West Shore railway, and W. C. Joyce, general freight agent of the Pennsylvania line. The management and the details of the company was discussed, and the meeting adjourned for another conference this week. The scheme is said to be the replacing of the present boats of the company by vessels of high speed and large tonnage, using most of the present boats for slow freights. One of the questions that came under consideration was the completion of the Northern steamship, and because of the superior speed and the large tonnage of the Hill line of boats, this new condition between these four roads and the Transit company was formed. As soon as the plans are fully made negotiations will begin for new boats. They will be of steel and the orders will probably be placed in Cleveland.

A LOCAL OPERA.

The "Pirates" to be given with a splendid cast next April.

For the past month several local musicians have been at work securing vocal material for an early presentation at Duluth of the "Pirates of Penzance." The cast is now nearly complete, and will contain many of the best Duluth singers, besides several celebrities from other cities.

Among the leading local vocalists who will take part are Miss French of the Proseletarian choir of this city, and Miss May, a Minneapolis contralto, who is highly spoken of in Flour city musical circles. Mr. Porter, the Minneapolis basso, has been engaged. Mr. Foulkes, the Superior tenor, who has sung with McLaughlin, Mr. Edgar Eva, Mr. W. P. Hulbert and Mr. Walter Fitch will also take part. Mr. Frank Hoare has charge of the music. The opera will be given in April, and its presentation will be with a chorus of fifty voices. The postponing will be done by a New York firm.

The first rehearsal will be given at the commodious warehouse of the Duluth Music company, which has been kindly tendered the free use of for rehearsals.

Commercial binding and printing receives accurate and prompt attention at The Herald Job Rooms.

THE ORE TRADE.

A Waiting Market; After Bessemer Ores; Mines Changing Hands.

Cleveland Ore Trade Review: Just which way the cat will jump, within the next thirty days, is hard to tell. There is a distinct lull both East and West, but nobody can be found who will predict that this lull is to the general iron market. The mouse, in this case, is supposed to represent the seller, who is being watched with cat-like keenness for any advantage, in the way of lower prices, that may be taken of him. There are some who affect to believe that pig iron has gotten over the center and that the next movement will be a decline of at least fifty cents, but this may be the case of the wish being father of the thought. Our reports from leading trade centers, the central West certainly contain no such indications.

Non-Bessemer ores continue to find a market in a usual way, but there seems to be no general demand on the part of furnaces. Indeed, a good many of them have been covering their wants gradually and quietly, and cannot use more ore in any event, while some ore dealers dare not sell any more of their product until the middle of next summer. The statements made a month or more since, as to the scarcity of Bessemer ores with steel makers east of the Alleghenies, is again illustrated by a visit to this city, this week, of a responsible buyer, who seemed so determined to secure 50,000 tons of Bessemer ore that he offered to take it irrespective of price. He was unsuccessful, however. Dividend-paying mining property is constantly changing hands, an evidence of the confidence of investors in that industry.

The regular meeting of the Women's Mission circle of the Second Baptist church was held Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Lent, 2303 West Fourth street. Only regular routine business was transacted. An entertainment will probably be given by them soon.

IS FOURTH DOCK.

Marquette will soon have its fourth dock. This is to accommodate the increasing business in ore, and will be built by the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad. Last year the company had more than it could handle with the then dock facilities, and proposes this year, if possible, to take care of all that comes in its way.

The company has granted the necessary authority and work will commence on the new dock at once.

HIS FAREWELL TALK.

There was an overcrowded house at Temple Opera last night when the final lecture of P. A. Burdick. The speaker presented the temperance argument in his customary style, and as usual had the sympathy and attention of his audience. A collection to assist the expenses of the Temperance Home, and other items, was taken and $70 more than required was subscribed in a few minutes.

An Abandoned Baby.

A month-old girl was found in one of the pews of Sacred Heart church Saturday night. The little one had evidently been abandoned. Beside her was a bottle of milk. The infant's clothes were very fine, and the child had every appearance of being well cared for. It was taken to the Women's Home. No trace of the mother can be found.

Lectures by the Bishop.

Bishop McGillick gave the first of a series of lectures last night. His theme was literature. His great knowledge, very strongly against the obscene literature which is circulated so freely and earnestly urged the mediaeval ban to eradicate the evil. The bishop will continue these lectures, taking for his subject the sacraments of the church.

Probably Suicided.

The body of a Swede laborer hanging from a tree near Short Line park was discovered late Saturday night. From all appearances it was a suicide. The man's name was Anderson.

SPORTING NOTES.

Ward is so confident that he has a stronger team than Mr. Byrne that he wants to play the League team a series of games for all the gate receipts.

Walter Hewitt will try to secure Paul as a government position at Washington and then get him to play ball with the Senators, if they play at all.

The baseball clubs of the Amateur Athletic union will be permitted to employ professional batteries and to play against professional clubs.

Patsy Cardiff and George Fodtrey are matched to fight before the Parnell Athletic club of Boston, within seven weeks for a purse of $1200, $200 to go to the loser.

Mark O'Leary and Archie Latham dug out of an Oregon snow drift last Saturday, and succeeded in reaching St. Louis on Thursday. "We were snowed up for nine days," said Latham, "in drifts thirty feet high, and we tunneled to a boarding house, and after we had learned to slide down chimneys, we made a few social calls."

Henry Larkin will undoubtedly be made captain and manager of the Cleveland Players' League team.

Mike Lehane, late first baseman of the Buffalo team, has been sold to Columbus to take the place of Dave Orr.

The New York League team is after Catcher Wilson of the Worcester club. Murrie signed this same player three years ago when he was in Portland and released him without a trial.

IS A NATIONAL ISSUE.

The Very Important Salt Lake City Election Held Today.

Issues as They are Defined by Both Mormons and Gentiles.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Feb. 10.—The most bitter municipal contest in the history of Salt Lake is being fought out at the polls today.

On one side are arrayed the liberals or Gentiles, on the other the Mormons. It is the latter's last struggle for control of municipal affairs, and it indicates count for anything, they are already beaten. Politics have been forgotten for the time being in this campaign, all opposed to the status, no matter what their creed or political affiliation, having ranged themselves under the liberal banner; while the Mormons have styled themselves the "people's party."

For nearly a year the liberals have been organizing for today's fight, but so secretly were their movements conducted, that it was only a couple of weeks ago that the Mormons became fully alive to the danger with which they were threatened.

Since then both sides have been holding nightly mass meetings, parades and illuminations, until the excitement has reached a boiling pitch, and the City of the Saints has witnessed the extraordinary spectacle of an anti-Mormon meeting held right in Brigham Youngs Opera house, and presided over by a son of one of the apostles' brothers.

The total registration of the city is about 8000, and so sure are they of victory that they have offered to put up a lump sum of $10,000 to $25,000 against half of such amount, on at least 100 plurality. They have, moreover, control of the election machinery, and the polls will be closely guarded to prevent fraud.

The Mormons have spent money lavishly, but their adherents are dumb founded at the opposition, and are inclined to concede that they were in a losing fight several days ago. Despite the bitter feeling no trouble is expected at the polls unless there is a clash between the United States marshals and the Mormon police, who are expected to have been disfranchised.

The election is for mayor, recorder, treasurer, assessor, and collector and marshal of Salt Lake City; also for three councilmen and one justice of the peace for each of the five precincts of the city. The whole ticket is to be elected at large. Some confusion has arisen over the application of a law passed at the last session of the legislature in relation to municipal organizations and elections. The old law provided for five councilmen and nine councilors elected at large to compose the city council. The new law provides for three councilmen and one justice of the peace to be elected from each precinct. Previous to the O'gden election a year ago the federal law decided that the election should be conducted under the old law, but as to this one the court decides that it must be conducted under certain provisions of the new law.

The fragment of each enactment will then govern, and it is not unlikely that litigation will follow after the election no matter which ticket wins.

The issues involved in today's contest, as P. H. Lannon, proprietor of the Salt Lake Tribune, a pro-government of the city and the bearing of all that comes in its way, will have upon the territory at large. If the Gentiles are successful it will place the city in harmony with national law and authority. It is recognized that the city has great influence in the territory and consequently the issue is a national one.

The success will mean that the re-emption of Utah is slowly but surely being accomplished.

W. B. Douglas, superintendent of the Deseret Telegraph company, and a prominent Mormon, gives the other side.

The people party represents the men and women who have built up the territory and maintained from the beginning honest and economical government with low tax, small official salaries and the avoidance of a big bonded debt.

Conservative progress has been its policy, and the diffusion rather than concentration of wealth its aim and practice. The liberal party represents the speculative and gambling elements that have rushed in with prospects of a boom, and the antagonistic forces which desire to break up the old organization. They have brought about the legislation which has deprived many of the older citizens of the franchise, and they are working for the disfranchisement of every Mormon in the territory. They openly avow their intention to work for congressional legislation which will deprive every member of the Mormon church of the right to vote, hold office or obtain titles to public lands.

ELECTRICIANS EN ROUTE.

Electric Light Delegates on Their Way to Convention.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—The Eastern delegation of the National Electric Light association, representing Boston, New York, Philadelphia and the seaboard cities, arrived here this morning on a special train over the Pennsylvania road. After being shown the sights of the city and indulging in a banquet they will be joined by the Chicago and Northwestern delegation, the entire party leaving tonight over the Burlington on a special train lit by electricity, a special engine furnishing the steam for the dynamo.

The party, which comprises the most noted electricians in the country, is en route to the national convention, which opens in Kansas City on Wednesday.

To Open Reservations.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., Feb. 10.—News from Washington from the President issued his proclamation throwing the Sioux reservation open to settlement is momentarily expected this morning. Thousand of prospective settlers are camped on the east side of the river and will move over as soon as Indian Agent Anderson and his Indian police receive official notice of the proclamation. The river is frozen solid, and the grand rush to slide down chimneys will be worth seeing. The settlers for the most part are all well supplied with teams and all the necessary tools for establishing homes in the reservation.

Sister Rose Gertrude.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The official court journal publishes the following concerning Miss Amy C. Fowler, or Sister Rose Gertrude, who is now in the United States en route for Molokai, where she will succeed the late Father Thomas, superintendent of the lepers hospital at Kalaup.

"Her majesty the Queen has been greatly interested by the mission of Sister Rose Gertrude to the Hawaiian islands. She first heard of this mission of this heroic girl from the Prince of Wales, and has ordered that all information bearing on it should be sent her."

It is understood that her majesty will, in some practical way, show her interest in the work of Sister Rose Gertrude.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—An immense crowd was drawn to Judge Waterman's court long before the hour for opening this morning in anticipation of exciting times over the preliminary movements in the trial of the men indicted for jury tampering in connection with the Cronin trial.

Interest mainly centered on the movements of John Graham, who is supposed to be the king-bird of the conspiracy, and who, it was reported a few days ago had skipped his bail of $15,000 and fled to a safe retreat in Mexico. Up to this writing, neither Graham or his lawyer had put in an appearance.

Are Interpreting Liquor Laws.

Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 10.—The Iowa supreme court has decided an appealed case from Cass county which puts an interpretation on prohibitory liquor law heretofore construed.

The defendant dispensed cider and a drink known as "B" as a beverage to thirty customers and held the United States internal revenue license to protect them in their sales, but claimed beverages were not intoxicating. The court held that the law makes the fact of a government license in one's possession prima facie evidence of its legality, and that the law except in the case of registered pharmacists and as defendants in this case who claim that the license is a judgment of conviction is affirmed.

Democracy Redefining.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 10.—The redistricting committee of the democratic caucus has completed its report and will present it tonight for ratification. It is understood that it endorses the plan of 1884. This gives the republican ten and the democratic eleven of the twenty-one congressmen of the state.

The Modus Vivendi.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 10.—Although the modus vivendi expires on Thursday next, the government, according to Sir John Macdonald, has made no provision for its renewal. It is acknowledged on all hands that the arrangement has worked well but to make it possible for the government to continue it, consent would have to be gained from parliament. Should the government decide to issue licenses this year, the renewal of the necessary authority could be speedily secured.

Observe What Others Do.

If you are a thoughtful, prudent man, one who feels that life is real and earnest, one who either insured your life or intended to do so in the immediate future.

If the former, there needs be said nothing further than you cannot have too much of a good thing within your ability to keep it. If the latter, then the question arises, have you so fully informed yourself that when you take the important step you will not make a mistake; one which you or your family will have to regret, for there are two plans which life insurance is offered, one based upon established facts, the other upon a theory which experience never yet has sustained. It ought not, however, to be difficult to reach a right conclusion, even if you have not had the time to become fully posted as to the respective merits claimed for each, since all that is required to be sure which is the better plan is to inquire in what organizations the long-headed men of your community have insured; the bankers, merchants, manufacturers, lawyers, and all others who carefully investigate before they commit themselves to any important undertaking. When you have gathered that information you can rest assured that in following their example you will not get so wrong, and, giving so credence whatever to the assessment fallacy, will be landed in the protecting fold of one of the great companies.

NEW WORKERS' SAY.

A Letter from New York that May Interest Many in Duluth.

Two Large Land Companies About to Incorporate for Work

Along the Daries of the St. Louis River Above the City.

The Herald has just received the following letter from New York, and by it in addition to what has already been said in The Herald concerning the water power purchases we are enabled this evening to give further particulars concerning developments in this vicinity—particulars that doubtless would have been kept from the public for several weeks yet had not The Herald received the voluntary permission of parties in possession of the full knowledge of all particulars, to speak of them in defense of the facts already given to the public and which have been so strenuously denied by a scoundrel contemporary. Our information is directly from parties interested and well qualified to testify:

"We have at our command a full list of all the property owned by the water power company as well as all that has been purchased and contracted by the company and by agents of Jay Cooke, for during the months of November, December and January, just past. Beginning in the vicinity of Thomson station and to some extent reaching upward toward Cloquet, the company has at last secured the full and complete control of the whole water privilege on the St. Louis river to within only a short distance of Spirit Lake, with one exception; there is a small frontage in section 14, 48-15, owned by a prominent Duluthian, Mr. A. R. Macfarlane, that they have not secured."

"These last purchases have huged close to the river all the way down to the Wisconsin side, while the strip of land is much broader on the Minnesota side. The manifest object being to get exclusive water privilege on the Wisconsin side, and in addition to this on Minnesota side facilities for water site privileges, canals and all the paraphernalia needed. The desire to develop the Pacific is," as was stated yesterday in The Herald in an interview with a leading real estate firm "to cross the river at or about Thomson, and head direct for Duluth over or near the old line."

It is also well known in Duluth that two large land companies are maturing plans to incorporate, and will develop property on both sides of the river between Fond du Lac and Spirit Lake, the one in Minnesota and the other in Wisconsin. One of these companies owns, among other property, lands in sections 13, 14, 15 and 16 town 48-15 and is composed of such men as J. H. Billings of the Northern Pacific road, A. R. Macfarlane, Mr. Upham and others of Duluth. The other members in its incorporation are large New York owners and Messrs. Thomas Barton, W. K. Rogers, F. R. Webster and others who are interested with Mr. B. Harrison in sections 34 of 49-15 and 3, 4 and 10, 48-15.

It is now evident that another object of the management of the Northern Pacific was to complete a short line system connecting all the points of head of the lake. This they expect to do by putting the bridge at Fond du Lac and connecting the two lines lying on both sides of the river. By a very short link they can complete in this way one of the finest and most complete short line systems in the world. The result is in possession of the facts, and its statements are well posted and interested parties.

BURIAL INSURANCE.

The Insurance of Children Again Comes up Starting Figures.

New York, Feb. 12.—The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children will endeavor to prevent the return of the little 5-year-old May Collins to her mother, Mrs. Hannah Collins. It is claimed that Mrs. Collins maltreated the little one in a shocking manner. When taken in charge a month ago, May's left cheek was swollen to twice its natural size, there were two cuts on her head, the third finger of her left hand was cut to the bone, her nose was bruised and her right arm was broken.

"We have just found out," said Superintendent Jenkins of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children when visited yesterday at the society's headquarters, "that Stepmother Collins had little May's life insured in the Metropolitan Life Insurance company for $40. This insuring children under 9 years of age is a terrible thing, and the legislature should pass a law prohibiting it. There is great agitation going on in England now about it. An attempt is also being made in Pennsylvania to prevent insurance companies from insuring small children. The case of the Wileys woman in Philadelphia who murdered her two children, so that she might collect the burial insurance on their lives, stirred up that community to the horrors of the thing. A bill was introduced in the legislature to abolish child insurance, but I believe the insurance companies defeated it."

"In England the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children had the case of a woman who murdered her child to collect the insurance on its life. The society over there is at present trying to have the insuring of children under 10 years of age abolished, and I hope it will succeed."

"In three-fourths of the cases of neglect and inhuman treatment of children that our society attends to in a year, we find that guardians, parents and step-parents of the children have insurance on their lives. I believe that there are today at least 100,000 children under 7 years of age in this city that have burial insurance upon their lives. In the state I believe there are at least 200,000 more."

HORSE TROTTERS MEET.

A Lively Fight in Progress Between East and West.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 12.—A biennial meeting of the National Trotting association opened at the Iroquois Hotel this morning with closed doors, the Eastern, Atlantic, Central and Western districts being fully represented. According to indications the trouble between the East and the West, which resulted in 1887 in the retirement of Thomas D. Vail from the position of secretary, is to be fought over again.

Some time ago unsigned circulars were sent to all the members of the association, asking them to send delegates, urging them to be represented by proxy, and this was followed by a second circular, asking that proxies be sent to the meeting. It was assumed by the western contingent that the circulars toward the reinstatement of ex-Secretary Vail in place of Morse, the present official, and quite a large contingent is here to oppose this move.

It is understood that the program is to elect King, secretary, in which event Vail will be the actual controller of the position. Morse's supporters are headed by John L. Mitchell, U. C. Blake, C. M. Smith and W. B. Fisk, all of the West, and who will make a hard fight for his reelection. There is also trouble concerning the action of President Johnson in appointing Vail a member of the committee on rules, and it is given out that at least two others will not serve on the committee.

The ex-secretary, however, can count a large and influential force of supporters who will stand by him and his interests to the last.

THE WOMAN'S CRUSADE.

A Very Exciting Time Regarding the Saloon.

LATHROP, Mo., Feb. 12.—The situation here is exciting and the woman's crusade against saloons is the only subject of conversation. One of the saloon men whose place was demolished has been arrested as fast as saloons are closed. Women who participated in the crusade with riotous conduct and the confiscation of private property.

The prosecuting attorney has been asked to resign, but he refuses and says he will issue warrants for the arrest of everybody as fast as saloons are closed. Unlimited backing has been guaranteed the ladies and they are heading at the saloons as fast as saloons are closed.

FLOOD REPORTS.

A Heavy Loss Both of Property and Life in Lake County.

EGGERS, Ore., Feb. 12.—Reports from Eugene state that a large number of people were driven from their homes by the recent flood and considerable property was destroyed. A bridge across Lake Creek was washed away. A man named Turner was drowned. The loss to Lake County is estimated at $500,000.

A mail carrier from Florence, Oregon, reports that a landslide occurred on the mountain above Siuslaw river, burying the residence of F. Andrews, killing Mrs. Andrews, her daughter and little son. Andrews and an older son were thrown into the river and after floating on debris all night were picked up several miles away in an almost dying condition.

BIG MONEY FOR A COAT.

Sues the Palmer House for $15,000 for a Coat.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Francis E. Duffy, a well known Duluth resident, yesterday sued the Palmer House for $15,000 damages yesterday for the loss of his overcoat, it having been stolen from the Palmer house billiard room. Fifteen thousand for an overcoat seems like a big sum, but it is not the loss of the overcoat that the advertising man claims. He says that in one of the pockets was a list of newspaper advertisements with their ratings, and that complete in this country, and that it was also a list of names of the most prominent speakers of the United States and Canada who will participate in the proceedings.

United States Cattle From Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 12.—Senator Reed proposes to call the attention of the senate to the bill to ship United States cattle from Canadian ports without being subject to the now existing quarantine regulations.

Law and Order League.

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—The Citizens Law and Order League of the United States announces that the eighth annual meeting of the league will be held in Toronto, Canada, on the 22d, 23d and 24th inst. Many of the most prominent speakers of the United States and Canada will participate in the proceedings.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

A disastrous freight wreck occurred just west of Altona last evening, demolishing two large engines and twelve cars of freight. Engineer Wm. Cover jumped from his engine and broke his left leg. Several other engines were injured. The wreck was caused by a runaway train.

Ernest Frick, an expert designer in the employ of Wheelwright, Eldridge & Co. of Boston, has been missing since Saturday. Frick came from France a few months ago and constantly carried on his person some $1400 in bank notes.

Frederick Stearns of the Detroit ball club got back to New York yesterday. His attempt to buy the Washington franchise failed. President Day is still of the opinion that something must be done in the way of reducing the number of clubs.

If you want acres at Fond du Lac come and see us. We have exclusive control of 150 acres. Some on both sides of the river.

TURN VEREIN MASQUERADE.

The ordered costumes for tomorrow night's masquerade have arrived. The members of the society as well as their invited friends to call around and select their choice costumes.

MAX LEVY,
18 West Superior street.

DID THEY HOLD IT?

A Secret Aldermanic Conclave Said to Have Taken Place.

Were the City Offices Parcelled Out at the Star Session?

A prominent city official is responsible for the following: "A couple of nights ago a secret conclave of newly-elected aldermen was held. It was perhaps one of the most private meetings ever held by any public body. No executive session of the city council, where everybody, reporters and all, are unconsciously excluded, could hold a candle to it. I tell you they weren't going to be overheard or discovered as they barricaded the doors and windows, they stuffed the keyhole with cotton."

This accomplished the first step taken by these present was to form a solemn compact to stick by each other. Then came a discussion of candidates for city offices. There was lots of talk and one alderman was in favor of bouncing everybody, while others wanted to keep those they thought had been faithful and had worked hard. They proposed to find out by personal investigation.

Well, after a lot of argument it was finally unanimously settled that the following would be good men for the job named: Chief of police, Sam McQuade; comptroller, Charles H. Smith; clerk of the council, T. W. Hugo; vice-president, C. A. Long. The health department was considered. It was the sense of the meeting that Dr. Sherwin, and all the inspectors but John Rosier, chief inspector, and Charles H. Smith, were to be too good a man to go. Other departments were discussed and changes suggested, after which, in the most profound silence, the convention adjourned.

"Now I don't want to go on record as saying these will be the appointees, but they probably will be if they'll take the place. It's a little doubtful if McQuade wants the chiefship."

THE THIRD TRIAL.

Several Juries Called in and Mary—

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 12.—The jury in the third Marysville trial after being called in all night brought in a verdict this forenoon. As to the killing of Samuel Marsh the jury finds Edward Smith guilty of murder in the first degree and Charles H. Smith, Charles H. Davis, Steve Peters, W. Kones, James H. Robinson, James Phillips, Anna Jones, James Johnson, John Fisher, Henry Jones and Edmund Francis, guilty of manslaughter; Geo. S. Key, William Williams, Norman Wooster and Ed Woodford, not guilty.

Was a Member of Parliament.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Elizabeth Vincent, a young and attractive woman, was re-arrested at Richmond today on charge of attempting to murder Lewis Henry Isaacs, a member of parliament for Newington, Walworth, in October last. Mr. Isaacs escaped with a few scratches, but was only 15 years of age and has since allowed her $400 a year. The prisoner was charged with attempting to poison him by putting a number of checks in the rum. The bullet was not removed, and in consequence of the wound Mr. Isaacs' fingers are paralyzed.

A Superior Offer.

The people of West Superior have offered a site and $50,000 cash to the American Steel Barge company to locate its plant there. The offer has been submitted to the company, but is not believed here that it will be accepted.

The fact is Duluth has agreed to a good deal more. But The Herald would say right here that unless others in Duluth who will be greatly benefited are willing to do their share and not put the whole burden on the West Duluth land company and a few others, the plant will go elsewhere. There are many owners here who will be fully as much benefited by the permanent establishment of this plant at Duluth as will the West Duluth land company, and they should all put in their share.

Company K Meets.

Company K held a business meeting last night, all the active members being present. The financial condition of the company was discussed and ways and means for raising funds to pay the interest on the bonds were talked over. The company needs money, and unless it can be raised without trouble most of the members are in favor of dissolving the organization. It did good work at the riot last spring, and its record in competitive drills at the state encampments places it among the best companies of the state militia. An appeal will be made to the city for funds, and the matter may be brought before the council.

HANGING TOO GOOD.

Thomas Kane Hung for the Brutal Murder of His Wife.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 13.—Thomas Kane was hanged in the jail yard here this morning for the murder of his wife in November last. He met his fate resolutely. The murder for which he suffered the death penalty was of a most atrocious character. He and his wife had been drinking and quarreled. He attacked her, and after pummeling her body in a shocking manner, knocked her brains out with a flat iron.

It was some time after 8 o'clock when the procession marched to the scaffold. Kane walked firmly. He looked slightly pale, but had evidently nerved himself. The usual prayers were said, the condemned joining in them; then the noose was adjusted, the black cap drawn over the murderer's head, and, while the prayers were still praying devoutly, the hangman's chisel severed the cord, and Kane's body shot up into the air. There were a few struggles and all was over.

FOUR PLEAD GUILTY.

Four of the Jury Drivers; Graham's Flight Starts the Cause.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—When the case of the men indicted for attempting to bribe the Cronin jury was called this morning the four remaining defendants pleaded guilty. The court called them up and asked them what they were pleading to, in box car enforced the full penalty of the law, but that he would have evidence to determine what mitigating or aggravating circumstances there were. A panel veniremen was accordingly called into the box, and the work of selecting a jury began. Public interest in the case is greatly lessened since the flight of Graham, who is supposed to be near the head of the conspiracy to corrupt the jury. Mr. Ingham had been retained by the Bar association to assist the prosecution, but this morning was informed that the man the Bar association desired to prosecute had disappeared, they did not feel that they could afford to retain Mr. Ingham.

The Fearful Western Storms.

DENVER, Feb. 12.—All trains from the East and South were delayed by Monday night's storm from three to twenty hours. The snow was not heavy, but was mixed with sand. A Santa Fe freight was wrecked near Pueblo by colliding with a box car that had been blown from a side track, but no one was seriously injured. J. E. Webster, a contractor of Denver, who has been in the business of returning home, was overcome, sunk down in a drift and was frozen to death.

When this is done the child cannot be taken from them by any process. That the deserted infant is in good hands there is no question.

THAT TERRIBLE SIBERIA.

More Stories of the Fearful Crimes Under the Name of Law.

Russian Government Again Before the Bar of the Public.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—George Kennan, the well-known Siberian lecturer, is now in this city, and was asked regarding a dispatch from Paris yesterday detailing an outrage to Kama, Siberia, by a prison official at Kama, Siberia, and the distressing train of events which followed. He said that the dispatch bore the impress of truth.

"Paris contains a large number of Russian refugees, and they have means of communicating with the penal settlements that no other persons have. The Yakutsk massacre came out through refugees in Paris, and it is evident that the persons who wrote the dispatch knew something about the location of the prisons at Kama. I have been there and know that the male and female prisoners are some distance apart. I never met the ladies mentioned, but I knew of Mrs. Kavalafskaya and have heard of Mrs. Shidla. I will undoubtedly hear something about this matter in a few days."

"How could such information get out of a coolly guarded penal settlement? Some officer might have been present who did not approve of the outrage and told some of the prisoners about it. Some of the women may have seen it and sent word to Paris. Such outrages never can be covered up. They are bound to get out some way. There are 700 or 800 male prisoners at Kama and some of them manage to convey information to their friends at Paris or elsewhere."

It seems that Mrs. Nadya Shidla, of noble birth and teacher in the high school at Moscow, was found last year with revolutionary views in her possession and was sentenced to penal servitude. On her arrival at Kama, this handsome, refined woman soon attracted the attention of the director of the prison, who insulted her. In revenge for her quick rebuke he had her stripped and lodged in the presence of all the men in the prison. The shame and torture played on her mind that she could not endure. Several other female political, fearful of receiving similar treatment, followed her example. A few miles from Kama a prison is occupied by male political prisoners, who are the victims of these outrages, revolted on mass. Troops were called out in the presence of the whole, shooting, kicking and torturing by the wholesale.

The Duke of Orleans Given Two Years' Imprisonment.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—Before judgment was announced, the duke addressed the court in his own behalf. He said: "I came to France to serve as a common soldier. I have nothing to do with politics, which only concerns my father, whose obedient son and faithful servant I am. I knew that by entering France I made myself liable to live, but that was my duty, not stop me. I love my country and wish to serve her. I am guilty of no crime."
